Bombs Fail to Sink Oil Tanker

LAND'S END, England (AP) — Reports received by the Royal Navy early today indicated that the stern of the shattered super tanker Torrey Canyon was still afloat despite a hail of bombs and a sea of fire.

Coroner:

Safety Stays Ashore

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver coroner Glen McDonald Tuesday outlined outdated rules of marine safety in Canada.

"How many more must literally go down with their ships before the authorities do something about it?" Mr. McDonald asked in a newspaper article.

"By more I mean more than the 28 lives lost in B.C. fishing and tug boats last year."

VICTORIAN ACT
"By authority I mean the Department of Transport, which functions under the Canada Shipping Act... an act which when proclaimed by Queen Victoria was then as archaic as the non-existent rules of safety of the Phoenicians. There has been no change since," Mr. McDonald said.

"But there have been fantastic changes in our fishing and tug boat industries which would have stunned the minds of those who drafted the English Merchant Shipping Act... which Canadians plagiarized without blush some 100 years ago and without blush perpetuate today."

"But no one has added one little bit more of safety to this sea-going vessel."

Pearson Vague on Plans

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson has dropped a hint that he may order a slowdown in unification of the armed forces.

Defence Minister Hellyer, now on vacation, has made it clear that he will resign if unification is scrapped.

The likely compromise is a formula that will allow Mr.

The Navy armed jet bombers with 1,000-pound bombs and napalm for another attempt to burn away the sea of oil that gushed from the shattered hull.

However, definite word to strike again was still awaited at dawn by the bomber crews.

BURNING CARGO
British planes began blasting the wreck Tuesday with tons of high explosives and then rained down incendiary bombs in an effort to burn her leaking cargo of crude oil from the sea.

The first strikes, by eight Royal Navy Buccaneer bombers, sent smoke and flames flaring up to 8,000 feet above the wrecked 38,562-ton ship, which ran aground on the Seven Stones Reef March 18 and broke into three parts Sunday night while Dutch tugs were trying to pull her free.

Behind the bomber strike 20 RAF Hawker Hunter fighters.

GORDON AWAITS BIG JOB

VANCOUVER (CP) — Walter Gordon says he hopes to be drawing the salary of a full-fledged cabinet minister in the near future.

Asked if he thought he would be involved in an impending cabinet shuffle, the former finance minister said Tuesday he would not be "a bit surprised."

Mr. Gordon, who now draws a pay cheque about half the size of his cabinet colleagues as a minister without portfolio, said he doesn't think he will be finance minister again. "We who have been finance minister know too much for that."

Mr. Gordon said he expected his present cabinet duties to be clarified shortly.

Opening for Birth Control Education

Bishop Hails Message Of Papal Encyclical

Bishop Remi De Roo hailed the announcement Tuesday by Pope Paul which gave the support of the Roman Catholic Church to civic birth control education as long as this education does not violate "moral law."

The papal statement from

Vatican City, in an 8,000-word encyclical on social and economic problems, did not relax the church's long-standing ban on artificial birth control.

"The temptation is great to check the demographic population increase by radical measures," the Pope said.

The bishop, said it is very significant that the Pope returns to the principle of the informed conscience of parents "as the source of final decisions in matters of population control taking into account the common good of humanity."

"I am also happy," Bishop De Roo said, "that countries are being reminded of their responsibilities on the international level to live and act as a family of nations to develop justice among different peoples. I think this will encourage a continuing dialogue between the church and the peoples of the world."

"In these rapidly changing times," Bishop De Roo concluded, "we need this constant flow of ideas and dialogue around the acute social problems that humanity is experiencing."

Any governmental measures on birth control, the Pope said, must be based on the dignity of the human person.

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists rejected an 11th hour contract proposal from major U.S. radio and television networks Tuesday night and girded for a dawn strike.

Donald F. Conaway, executive secretary of the 18,000-member AFTRA, said after talks broke up with the networks and a federal mediator: "The strike is on."

It was not clear whether the strike would be called at dawn eastern standard time or whether it would be called at dawn in each of the time zones across the country.

Conaway had said even before the talks ended in a stalemate that the union of announcers, reporters, actors, singers, and dancers was preparing for a strike.

STRIKE AT DAWN
"There will be a settlement—or a strike at 5 a.m.," he had said.

He said the dawn deadline was set because "the first really big show is the Today show. You've got to stop those people from coming in."

The Today show is an NBC television network program which is taped and aired later in the morning.

Conaway said the strike will hit all national programming throughout the U.S. on NBC, ABC, and CBS radio and television and on the Mutual radio network.

STILL WAITING
Programs that have been taped after last Nov. 18 also will be affected because the union made an agreement with the networks on that date that no programs could be taped for use during a strike, Conaway said.

An NBC spokesman said the network planned to use administrative personnel to replace strikers.

Reporters seek a base salary of $35 a week, plus 50 per cent of all commercial fees until the fees equal base salary. After that, they would retain 100 per cent of the fees.

Presses May Halt Thursday

NEW YORK (AP)—The chief union negotiator in talks between five city newspapers and 10 unions said Tuesday he is convinced a new contract is unlikely before the midnight Thursday night deadline.

Failure could mean another crippling newspaper strike here.

The Daily Mirror, a morning tabloid, folded shortly after a 114-day strike in 1962-63 and the morning Herald Tribune, which was to be part of a three-paper merger, never published after a 114-day strike last year.

The president of the printers' union, Herman A. Posner, said Tuesday:

"We are convinced that if the printers' union and the newspaper unions can't agree on a contract, it's going to be a disaster."

Ticket Lifted, Too

Fine All Captain's

ANCHORAGE (AP) — A Russian trawler captain, convicted last week in Alaska of violating U.S. territorial waters, faces forced repayment of a $10,000 fine and loss of his master's licence for a year.

Yuri V. Chernokhud, third secretary of the Soviet embassy in Washington, disclosed here Tuesday what action would be taken against Leonid Kushenko, 29, of Vladivostok.

Chernokhud said Kushenko

will have to pay back the full amount of the fine "over a period of time" and have his captain's ticket lifted for up to a year when he returns to Russia.

The Soviet government paid the $10,000 Monday to obtain Kushenko's release after he spent 43 hours in jail here. The fishboat skipper was flown back to Kodiak and then taken by a U.S. Coast Guard cutter to rejoin his ship, 20 miles offshore in international waters.

Kushenko was convicted in federal court here Saturday of violating U.S. fishing waters and was given the maximum fine.

His 178-foot shrimp trawler was seized by the coast guard six days ago after being sighted 5½ miles off Alaska's Shumagin Islands. It was the first ship seized for penetrating the new U.S. 12-mile fisheries zone, which went into effect March 15. The Russian ship was released during the weekend.

Leave Us Alone Ky Peace Plan

From Wire Reports

A U.S. Army field gun Tuesday lobbed a 175-millimetre artillery shell packed with propaganda leaflets over the demilitarized zone from South to North Vietnam. The missile had Nguyen Cao Ky written all over it.

Ky

The South Vietnamese premier had autographed the warhead right after offering his own three-part peace plan — the main theme of which was that negotiations to end the war should be limited to South and North Vietnamese authorities (See also Page 3).

The rest of the world didn't seem to be in agreement with the dapper little premier Tuesday. United Nations Secretary-General U Thant disclosed a peace proposal that was accepted by the United States, rejected by the North Vietnamese by way of a radio broadcast, welcomed in Canada and Britain and not commented upon by Moscow or Peking.

"Too many points of view and proposals are confusing things," Ky told correspondents who accompanied him to the artillery display.

"We are always hearing that the United States is starting talks with Moscow or Hanoi or somebody. Why? Continued on Page 3

Terror Hands Clumsy

SAIGON (Reuters) — A Viet Cong guerrilla mine was planted to blow up the Australian Embassy here in 1964 but failed to go off—possibly because somebody forgot to wind its watch timing device, says a document released Tuesday by the U.S. military command.

The story of the abortive bomb attack is told in a section headed "clumsiness" in what the command called a Viet Cong document on terrorism in South Vietnamese cities. The U.S. command said the document was captured by American troops last month.

KEY TARGET
The document also advised the Viet Cong to concentrate their activities on South Vietnamese rather than Americans and to employ rudimentary weapons such as catapults and blowguns firing poisoned arrows for attacks on individuals.

"If we destroy the Americans they are still capable of bringing in replacements. But if we succeed in destroying the replacement (Saigon) government machinery, pacification apparatus, local agencies and reactionary organizations, we will have achieved a total victory."

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP) — Police investigated an anonymous tip that two young men were seen pushing a compact car into the living room of a house, after removing sliding glass doors.

The two young men pleaded inability to afford a radio, and said they chose this method of bringing music — from the car radio — into the home.

Vietnam Highlands

Plague Outbreak Attacks Tribesmen

SAIGON (UPI) — The third outbreak of bubonic plague in the past month has claimed the lives of three tribesmen in an isolated Montagnard village in the central highlands, it was reported Tuesday. Eight other tribesmen are infected.

Previous bubonic outbreaks were reported at Vung Tau, near the mouth of the Saigon river, and Cam Ranh, about halfway up the South China seacoast.

So far a total of six persons have been termed victims of the disease, including the tribesmen at the remote Dak To village.

NO KNOWN DEATHS

There were unconfirmed reports of scattered cases of plague in Nha Trang and Hue. No deaths were reported.

A U.S. spokesman said 29 Vietnamese and one American have been stricken with the disease at Cam Ranh Bay and the number of victims at Vung Tau ranged up to 20. All three outbreaks have been brought under control.

MORE EXPECTED

Medical authorities, citing the approach of the hot and dry season, said more outbreaks could be expected between now and August, especially along the coast and in the central highlands.

Medical teams have been circulating through infected areas inoculating the population with anti-plague serum. All allied troops have been inoculated.

Blast Kills Marines

SAIGON (AP) — The accidental explosion of a mine in a training class Tuesday at Da Nang killed 13 U.S. marines and wounded another. U.S. officials say.

The blast occurred at a school operated by the marine corps 7th Engineer Battalion.

Throughout the embattled country, ground action during the day was described as light.

Temperature -82

Pole-Bound Party Finds Trip Cold

MONTREAL (CP) — An eight-man expedition attempting to reach the North Pole by motorized sled has encountered temperatures of about 82-degrees below zero, a Montreal spokesman for the party said Tuesday.

Radio reports from Ralph S. Plasted, leader of the expedition, said the group left Eureka on Ellesmere Island in the Northwest Territories Tuesday on the first leg of its trip to the Pole.

The party, mounted on motorized sleds, was proceeding down the ice of Nansen Sound in a temperature of 20 degrees below zero with a wind of 30 miles an hour.

The temperature and wind, combined with the speed of the sleds, lowered the effective temperature to about 82 degrees below zero, said the spokesman.

Although the temperature was low for this time of year and "not readily tolerated" such extremes had been anticipated. The expedition was in no danger.

Once out of the 162-mile-long sound, the party plans to clear an ice strip so that a twin-engine Otter aircraft can fly in supplies from Eureka.

The expedition plans to reach the Pole in mid-April.

Undersea House Red Idea

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists will erect a house on the bottom of the Black Sea for a four-man staff of "aquanaut" undersea explorers, Tass said Tuesday.

The experiment will parallel French explorations in the Mediterranean and the Red Sea by world-famed undersea explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau.

The undersea dwelling will be a steel cylinder about 25 feet long by 10 feet in diameter with a bedroom, control post and diving zone to permit the aquanauts to enter and leave the capsule.

Collectives Not Involved

More Independence Due For Soviet State Farms

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's planners and more say in the disposal of their own profits.

The reforms will affect only state farms, which are run like agricultural factories — not the collective farms, which are run as co-operatives.

But conflict has arisen between two schools of officials. One wants only 8 per cent of the state farms transferred to the reformed system this year on an experimental basis. The other wants all 12,000 farms transferred immediately.

These developments were reported by the Soviet news agency Tass, which said that "state farms now have no broad independence."

"Leading economists and workers have long since agreed that the efficiency of production on state farms would be much principle was introduced and if their activities were not so strictly controlled from above," Tass said.

State farms are vast tracts on which workers, like factory laborers, work a set number of hours and receive a salary. These farms produce about 40 per cent of the Soviet Union's farm output.

PRIVATE PLOTS

Another 45 per cent comes from collective farms which, in theory, are "owned" by the workers whose pay goes up or down according to the crops.

The rest comes from private plots which, in both theory and practice, are owned by the peasants. Although only an infinitesimal fraction of the total farm land, they are tended with such loving care that their output has become indispensable to the Soviet diet.

Peking Just Waiting?

Feinberg

VANCOUVER (CP) — Toronto Rabbi Abraham Feinberg Tuesday predicted Communist China would enter the Vietnam war if the United States invaded North Vietnam.

Red China would not stand for the presence of U.S. troops on its border, said the rabbi, who met with North Vietnam President Ho Chi Minh during a recent trip to that country and Communist China.

Mr. Feinberg also said American bombing will never defeat the North Vietnamese.

Nuclear Defences Put on Alert By Assassination

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.S. defences around the world were put on an alert against nuclear attack within minutes after President Kennedy's assassination pitched the U.S. into two of the most critical hours in its history. William Manchester's book The Death of a President disclosed Tuesday.

The so-called official account

Manchester

RIGHT MOVES

Manchester praises Defence Secretary McNamara for making "all the right moves" in the face of a situation that had all the aspects of a sinister international plot.

The telephone blackout in the capital might alone have meant the difference between survival and defeat if Russia had been plotting nuclear war, Manchester wrote.

OVER PACIFIC

The president was dead in Dallas, the new president barred there to be sworn in and six members of the cabinet were airborne over the Pacific.

"By every readable signal, the situation was very red," Manchester asserted — but all ended well.

The book added Mrs. Kennedy sought solace in the hope that her husband had been the victim of a conspiracy, for then she could persuade herself that her husband's death was inevitable.

Interest Still Cool

IF A GALLUP POLL on the subject is taken as reflecting a consensus of opinion most Canadians are not falling over themselves with enthusiasm for Expo 67. And the farther west they live the greater the diminution of interest.

About a quarter of those questioned say they certainly plan to attend the fair; the remainder have not so far made similar plans, although Expo opens next month. Of those in the latter category in fact some 53 per cent say they won't be going. And 38 per cent only "might" attend.

Once the fair opens and becomes the focus of centennial attention one supposes this picture may change.

Several reasons may account for the lack of enthusiasm these poll figures suggest. One basic one is that not every Canadian can afford a trip to Montreal—it is noticeable for example that west of the Great Lakes the proportion of those cited as having no intention of being at Expo rises to 74 per cent. Sheer distance may be the cause.

There is also the sentiment of English-speaking Canadians to be taken into account in view of extremist views about the Quebec "state," its language and culture, and to them the feeling that Quebec is trying to force its way on the rest of the nation. Right or wrong as this may be it is undoubtedly a factor in relation to attendance at Expo 67.

This exhibition—seldom called by its promoters what it is, Canada's world fair—is steeped in the connotations of its locale. Had it been staged in Ottawa, for example, it probably would have had greater impartial appeal.

Yet Expo 67 promises to be an outstanding example of a world fair, and a credit to the nation which makes it the centrepiece of its 100th birthday celebrations. It represents Canada on view to the rest of the world and in this sense alone is worthy of patronage by all who can manage it. The Gallup Poll is not the last word on attendance, however; enthusiasm across the land may mount as holiday times come around.

Worthy of Thought

THE SOUTH AFRICAN government's offer of self-rule to the 240,000 people of Ovamboland in South-West Africa will undoubtedly be seen by many as a wily Boer trick designed not only to cheat the African tribesmen of their inheritance but to forestall any concerted United Nations action over the disputed territory.

It is to be hoped that the Canadian government will not be among those who condemn the South African proposal out of hand before subjecting the issue to thorough study.

The matter of South-West Africa sparked worldwide interest in 1960 when South Africa's right of mandate over the territory was challenged before the International Court of Justice. For six years the Court conducted exhaustive hearings on the case and finally, last year, ruled in favor of South Africa.

The complainants, Liberia and Ethiopia, refused to accept the findings of the World Court and succeeded in placing the matter before the General Assembly of the United Nations, which in turn, took it upon itself to declare the League of Nations mandate exercised by South Africa terminated.

The declaration, of course, did not have the backing of the International Court of Justice because there existed, and still so exists, considerable doubt as to whether the United Nations has the legal right or competence to end a League of Nations mandate.

Despite this, the majority of nations, including Canada, voted in favor of the General Assembly resolution and even went so far as to support the additional and unproven declaration that South Africa had denied moral and material advancement to the inhabitants of South-West Africa.

Both before the International Court and during the UN debate the South African government stated that it was its intended purpose to grant the inhabitants of South-West Africa self-determination at the earliest possible moment.

Keeping its word, the South African government last week took the first step toward attaining this objective. The method it has chosen will in all probability not be acceptable to the main South African critics or their supporters for rather than granting total independence, holus bolus, the Pretoria administration will introduce it by stages in a type of "Bantustan" development such as employed with the Transkei.

Canada and other moderate and responsible nations should look at this South African proposal in an objective way before rejecting it. Certainly, in the light of past African experience, there is much to be said for the slow and cautious approach to independence as advocated by South Africa.

They All Belong

WHATEVER MR. HELLYER may think of the regimental spirit, and he obviously pays it scant regard, it is something that lingers on. This was evident last week when survivors of the local first war 67th Battalion expressed their dissent of the ukase that prevents their unit being represented at the Vimy Ridge memorial being held on the famous ridge to mark the 50th anniversary of the battle which became a hallmark of Canadian Corps exploits on the Western Front. It was explained in Parliament last month that representatives of those who took part in the battle would attend as part of the official Canadian delegation.

But although they were actively engaged on the scene, and as a segment of the Canadian Corps of 1917 an integral formation of that force, the surviving members of the 67th Battalion have been told by the veterans' affairs department they don't qualify for unit presence at this anniversary service. Engineer survivors will represent them.

Not surprisingly the 67th veterans feel discriminated against and, no doubt, insulted as well. They point out they not only prepared the ridge but took part in the fighting and that the ratio of casualties suffered at Vimy by pioneer battalions equalled those of infantry and other participating units. They accordingly take strong exception to being denied the privilege of having one of their number lay a regimental wreath on the monument that towers as a lasting reminder of the valor of April 9, 1917.

Government departments do strange things, and none more so than when it comes to the armed forces or their predecessors. It is short-sighted to pick and choose on such an occasion, and not to embrace all formations who were at Vimy Ridge no matter their capacity. All of them belong to this famous day in Canadian military history.

"La suite is only six dollars. La key is sixty-seven dollars extra."

national conference such as those in Geneva in 1954 on Indo-China or in 1962 on Laos. Peking did not want a settlement in Vietnam.

What did he think of the idea of "neutralizing" Vietnam and Southeast Asia put forward by President de Gaulle? Mr. Khoman replied that he had the reputation of being fiercely anti-French, though educated in France. "De Gaulle doesn't know a damned thing about Southeast Asia. He is prompted by personal motives. France failed in Indo-China so it would pain him to see anyone else stabilizing the situation there."

British, engineers for road and airfield construction.

Could there, I asked, be a stable settlement for the whole of Southeast Asia based on some modus-vivendi with China such as Burma seemed to have achieved? Since North Vietnam was often said not to want Chinese domination, could it possibly be brought into a Southeast Asian settlement outside the Chinese orbit?

Mr. Khoman said that Burma's arrangement with China was not a real settlement but a de facto truce that could erupt at any time. There would be no Korea-type truce or ceasefire in Vietnam and "we shall have to be on our guard for a long time to come."

African Tribe Remnant of Ancient Egypt?

By KENNETH PEARSON
From London

Man, according to the famous archaeologist Dr. Louis Leakey, was born in East Africa at least 25,000,000 years ago. Since then, his development in that area has been badly checked. Climate, as much as anything, has destroyed the evidence.

But now, in the remote northeast corner of Uganda, a London professor has made a remarkable discovery which may shed some light on this mysterious past: a tribe whose language carries echoes of ancient Egyptian.

Professor Archibald Tucker of the School of Oriental and African Studies will announce his findings in August. They are expected to spark off new research into the nine or ten tribes in East Africa whose speech are islands of strange identity in a region where the Bantu, Cushitic and Massai languages are largely spoken.

The tribe, the Teuso (they call themselves the Iki, Inhabitants of the 9,000-foot Morungole range, with the Sudan to the north and Kenya to the east.

There are only 1,500 of them, hunters and gatherers with no cattle wealth, who have survived continuous raiding by richer neighbors across the borders by dispersing into mountainous areas whenever danger threatened.

Until now, they were thought by some to be related to the Bushmen of southern Africa.

During an attempt to classify the mystery languages before they died out, Professor Tucker came across the first clue to the "ancient Egyptian" tribe last March when he met in Kampala an anthropologist who was living with the Iki. Most comparisons between these mystery languages in the past have been made on the basis of their vocabulary. Tucker was trying to relate them through their grammar.

The anthropologist had also been studying Iki grammar. He showed Tucker his notes. The comparison with ancient Egyptian was at once apparent. Professor Tucker travelled north to the Morungole range to meet the tribe.

There, he discovered that Iki personal pronouns showed links with those of ancient Egyptian in its middle period, which developed about 2,000 B.C. and later became stylized into the classical written language of the Nile down to the time of Christ, when it was believed to have become extinct.

If Professor Tucker's speculations are right, how does this language appear more than 1,000 miles south of Egypt? With the decline of the Egyptian empire, successive invasions pressured its populations towards East Africa. The move began when the Assyrians sacked Thebes about 700 B.C. and the Egyptians moved their capital to Napata on the Nile north of Khartoum. Later, the Greeks and the Romans kept the movement going.

The tribe survived because its unproductive moonshape territory can have been coveted by no other tribes, and because, unaggressive by nature, the Iki have kept running to live — and to preserve as a fragmentary linguistic fossil a memorial to a once great empire.

Less Foreign Aid Triggers Vicious Downward Spiral

Unemployment, Brain Drain Follow End of Israel Boom

For much of the last decade the new port of Ashdod, 20 miles south of Tel Aviv, was one of the symbols of Israel's determination and triumph in the national struggle for survival.

Thrusting its artificial breakwaters out from the surf-torn beach, raising its cranes high above the blowing sand, it promised homes, work and the good life to the Jews of Morocco, Algeria, Romania and Bulgaria.

It was part of the dream of the diaspora in action — the homecoming made good.

Now, with shocking suddenness, Ashdod has acquired a touch of nightmare. A thousand of its 6,000 workers are unemployed, and when local citrus groves have been picked clean of this season's fruit and the crop has been shipped, another 1,800 will be out of work.

Three hundred of Ashdod's families have emigrated in the past year and last month a sizeable gaggle of Ashdod housewives battled with police in a hunger strike. Dozens of new apartments are empty, and the building that kept nearly half the local workers busy until last year has stopped.

People of Ashdod will be among the first people in Israel's history to receive state unemployment pay.

The basic facts and figures are scarcely in dispute. In spite of some nervous efforts by the government to obscure them, after nearly 15 years of steady boom, with a national growth rate averaging a hectic 10 per cent a year, Israel's development has come to a dead stop.

According to minister of labor Yigal Allon speaking in the Knesset (parliament) in early March, 96,000 Israelis were unemployed out of a total work force of 953,000.

Nobody I've talked to here has much doubt that unemployment will be higher when the citrus season ends.

Nor is there any dispute about the chief reasons for this sorry state of affairs. Indeed, many people saw or now claim to have seen it coming.

The end of German reparations two years ago deprived Israel of $70,000,000 a year and inevitably produced a reaction overheated by foreign aid. A simultaneously sharp decline in immigration did the rest.

Less foreign aid meant less money, less money meant less to attract immigrants, fewer immigrants meant smaller markets, smaller markets less work, less work less money and so on in a vicious downward spiral which challenges many of the assumptions on which the state of Israel has rested.

This is not to gainsay Israel's real achievements. The Jordan waters flow, the desert blooms, Ashdod and other towns like it have risen pristine from the barren land. But wages, prices and a host of white elephants have risen, too.

With immigrants arriving at the rate of 50,000 or even 100,000 a year, industries were established that would use their labor regardless of economic sense. There are said to be 170 textile manufacturers in the country now, and an economist I talked to this week said only about 10 of them deserved to survive.

As building and development roared ahead, workers demands more than kept pace in an inflationary spiral.

So Israeli kitchens burgeoned with jumbo refrigerators on time payments, and Israeli rooftops sprouted with television aerials through which, as Israel has no television service, Jewish immigrants from the Arab lands received programs from Cairo, Damascus and Beirut.

BACKGROUND

Canadian Coasts Could Be Polluted

Disaster Costly Warning

By JOSEPH MacSWEEEN from London

There is a simple reason why jumbo oil tankers are on the increase: They save money.

It costs $3,000,000 to build a 20,000-ton tanker, while for $15,000,000 you can have nine times that capacity. It costs $5.50 a ton to carry oil from the Persian Gulf to Britain in an old-fashioned tanker while the jumbo size can get here for less than $3.

The saving is obvious — until you mention the 38,000-ton Torrey Canyon and the 118,000 tons of oil she has been spewing off the English coast with incalculable damage.

Such ships as the Torrey Canyon are able to offer much lower carrying charges even though they have to sail all the way around Africa from the Persian Gulf. They're too big for the Suez Canal.

The Torrey Canyon, large as she is, compares modestly with some monsters already afloat and planned. The Japanese-built Idemitsu Maru, nearly one-quarter of a mile long, carries more than 280,000 tons and a 300,000-tonner now is on order in Japan.

One northeast England shipbuilder is reported ready to build a tanker of 1,000,000 tons if anybody wants to buy one. It would be built and launched in two sections and welded together at sea.

The Torrey Canyon disaster has brought home with a shock to Britain — and probably other countries as well — that such accidents on an even vaster scale can be expected in the future. Already there are 50 tankers larger — some of them greatly larger — than the Torrey Canyon.

Authorities say the entire east or west coasts of Canada and the United States could be polluted by the loss of one monster tanker. New international law is required to enable governments to take quick action.

In England, there is a precedent which may have caused the government to tread warily. The precedent was established in 1964 when the tanker Inverpool ran aground near Southampton and discharged 400 tons of oil to get clear. A claim of damages against the owners eventually failed.

Observers feel it is apparent that there should be some kind of double-check on the navigation of a ship carrying 100,000 tons of oil. The Torrey Canyon would hardly have hit the Seven Stones Reef if some outside body had been tracking her course.

One London newspaper has noted that the United States Coast Guard now operates an international service for ships in distress, with 17,000 ships from 80 nations voluntarily co-operating. They report their positions through a radio network which teletypes the message to a New York computer to produce a regular picture of the sea-lane situation.

Says the newspaper, The Daily Telegraph: "Here is a basis for nautical guidance on the lines of air traffic control. Vessels would report at frequent intervals and be warned — as the Torrey Canyon could have been — if they were standing in danger."

Cost Too High

Spectacle Cancelled

OTTAWA (CP)—The Centennial spectacle which was to have highlighted activities on Parliament Hill during the first two weeks of August has been cancelled.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh said last week latest estimates indicated the cost would reach $700,000, almost twice the original budget.

The two-week spectacle, directed by Sir Tyrone Guthrie, was to have featured choral groups and performers from across Canada.

Miss LaMarsh said the decision had been approved by Sir Tyrone, the centennial commission chairman of the Canadian Festival of the Arts.

ing. I wish it could be reported in great depth."

Mr. Pearson was pressed to say if there would be modification in the bill.

"I wouldn't want to answer that question, certainly without getting the views of the minister of national defence."

He was asked, too, if the government would "go through" with the bill this session, already the longest session in Canadian history.

"We propose to proceed with the defence bill," he replied, "it will be very, very early indeed on the list."

At no time during the press conference did Mr. Pearson say that the government would press the bill to a vote this session.

Under opposition pressure, the government may have to agree to terms to delay the bill.

If the debate drags on, the government will have to drop the debate early in May to ask for interim supply the money to run the country during May.

If the debate lasted through April, then the government used closure to end it, the opposition could continue a filibuster in the debate on interim supply, when anything can be discussed.

On unification, the government may have its back to the wall.

But the key question that will decide it is this:

Is it worthwhile for the opposition to create a crisis, to force a government to the brink, in terms of votes?

Or has it already won all the votes it can win on the unification issue?

F. B. DURRAND,
Municipal Clerk.

bombers dropped tank loads of gasoline and potassium chlorate incendiaries.

Home Secretary Roy Jenkins told a press conference in London the planes would continue to pour down incendiaries in an effort to keep the oil burning.

At one point, two hours after the initial attack, the flames died down and the fire appeared out. But another attack by air set the smoky fire going again.

Jenkins said the surface oil was burning well at the time of the press conference, but he was not sure how the fire inside the ship was going. The problem there, he said, was getting oxygen inside to feed combustion. Most of the wrecked ship was under water.

He estimated that at the time the bombers struck, the shattered hull still held 12,000,000 gallons of the 35,000,000 gallons of crude oil the Liberian-flag vessel, owned by a subsidiary of Union Oil of California, was carrying when she grounded.

BEACHES POLLUTED

Jenkins said the government decided Monday night to blow up the Torrey Canyon after it became evident she could not be refloated and towed into the Atlantic to be sunk. Oil from the ship has already polluted more than 120 miles of beaches.

22 Safety Standards In Volvo

ROCKLEIGH, N.J. (UPI)—Volvo of Sweden introduced today a new sedan model that incorporates nearly all the new U.S. federal safety standards which become mandatory with 1968 models. The major U.S. auto-makers insist they cannot adopt the same standards by the deadline.

The four-door sedan, called the 144, meets 17 of the 20 standards created by the National Traffic Agency and five other safety features not required by the regulations.

The five extra features, according to Volvo Inc. president Stig Jansson, are energy absorbing front and rear body sections, rear brake pressure relief valves, rear window defrosters, safety wheel rims and an anti-whiplash device on the front seat.

Jansson said all the safety features were engineered into the 144, Volvo's first new sedan in a decade, more than a year before the start of the safety controversy that led to the new government standards.

Welfare Sells Estate Rings Automatically

Any items from a welfare at which items should or should not be included when an estate was liquidated.

wedding and engagement rings — are automatically sold by Victoria's welfare department to defray funeral costs, says

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, chairman of the city's welfare committee. Last week an elderly pensioner, George Munro of 3035 Cook Street, complained that a woman's dying wish had been ignored and rings taken from her fingers and sold.

BOUGHT RINGS

Four years ago his friend, Mrs. Evelyn Mae Lohby, died in a city rest home.

He bought the rings back from the provincial administrator for $71.50 so he could fulfill her wish to have the rings sent to her niece in England.

He called the welfare action "barbarous" and "shameful exploitation of the dead."

SAVINGS EXPENDED

Mr. Munro said Mrs. Lohby had been ill before her death, and he had expended her life savings of $600 for her care.

Much of her care was also covered by welfare payments. The sale of her effects was not, however, an endeavor to recover welfare payments, but for funeral costs.

Ald. Wilson conceded Monday the action sounded cruel, but she felt there was no alternative.

She said she did not feel there was any way of drawing the line

Anti-Flag Signing Today

Opponents of Canada's maple leaf flag may sign a petition today and Thursday urging a change.

George Burnham, founder of the Flags of Our Century Association, has scheduled a two-day sign-up session in the Colony Inn from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day.

He has 300 signatures already and plans to collect more during a cross-Canada bus junket after leaving Victoria Friday. His goal is 3,000 signatures to present to the cabinet in Ottawa next month.

Unions Debate Jurisdiction

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia building trades unions Tuesday held their first provincial conference to discuss what they term a jurisdictional dispute. The trades unions are concerned over alleged IWA moves into the construction and building supply industry.

Hockey's a Flighty Affair for Delvecchio

Alex Delvecchio of Detroit was outnumbered and up-ended here in a losing cause last night as the Chicago Black Hawks trimmed Detroit Red Wings, 7-2. Denis DeJordy looks after both Delvecchio and the puck as Lou Angotti, left, and Matt Ravlich move in with another unidentified player. See story Page 9.—(AP)

Leafs Could Derail Canucks And Leave Totems Laughing

Victoria Maple Leafs will be facing a desperate Vancouver Canucks team tonight when the arch rivals meet at Memorial Arena for the scheduled Western Hockey League game.

Seattle Totems trimmed the host Canucks, 4-2, Tuesday, to all but clinch second place in the league standings. Seattle has two games left, one against Portland and the other against Vancouver, while Vancouver meets the Leafs twice.

Trailing Seattle by five points, Vancouver would have to win all three games and the Totems would have to lose to Portland to stake except pride. Milan Maricetta will be driving for two goals to top 40 for the year and that would be his first 40-goal season.

Bruce Carmichael has 29 goals and would like to reach the 30 plateau and Al Erickson needs five more points to have a 40-point season.

Veteran Guyle Fielder led the Totems scoring a goal and picking up two assists to extend his scoring lead to five points ahead of Portland's Al Jones.

Jim Paterson, Earl Heiskala and Howie Hughes scored the other Seattle goals while defenseman Larry Cahoon and Gordon Veprava replicated late in the third period for Canucks against Seattle goaltender Jim McLeod.

MELOD ON SPOT

McLeod can now only concede two goals in the last two games if he is to beat Gump Worsley's record of 2.40 goals against per game.

At Los Angeles, San Diego took a 3-0 lead, then held on to post a 5-3 Western Hockey League victory Tuesday night over the Los Angeles Blades.

San Diego defenseman Jim Watson opened the scoring on a 45-foot slapshot, and John MacMillan and Warren Hynes chipped in to get the Gulls their early lead.

Los Angeles' Willie O'Ree and Norm Johnson narrowed the margin to 3-2, but Len Ronson hit the eventual winning goal for the Gulls at 11:14 of the final period. O'Ree collected his second goal at the 13-minute mark, and Gordon Wilkie finished the scoring for the winners.

Two Rinks Unbeaten In Seniors Curling

MONTREAL (CP)—It was another fine day for New Brunswick and Saskatchewan at the national seniors curling championship, with both rinks entering today's fifth round with perfect records.

The Saint John Curling Club crew, skipped by Canny Jim Murphy, built its record to 4-0, while the Prince Albert rink of Hazen Ducky Pond was 3-0 after Tuesday's third and fourth rounds.

Alberta and Manitoba were next in line with 3-1 and 2-1 records respectively.

Murphy scored consistently in the morning round to defeat Carl Asmusen's Kitcheners, Ont., rink 7-4 and then bounced along to an easy 12-5 win over Dr. W. E. Macdonald of Charlottetown, in the afternoon game, a game which was called after the eighth end.

Pond had a bye in the Tuesday morning round, but came on in the afternoon to take a squeaker from Arnold Chinnell's Sudbury Granite Club entry—representing Northern Ontario—by a 7-5 margin.

Northern Ontario's Chinnell scored four in the tenth end Tuesday morning to edge Stan Farry's Montreal West rink 11-10. British Columbia, represented by Vancouver's Frank Avery, trimmed Ferry 14-11 in the afternoon to leave Quebec with a 0-3 record.

Avery in turn lost his morning round to Charlottetown's Dr. MacDonald by a 9-4 spread. It was the first win for P.E.I.

ISLAND CAGER CAPTURES MVP AWARD

VANCOUVER—Bill Robinson of Chemainus led the Provincials to a 85-57 victory over the Vancouver area Metros in the first annual high school all-star boys basketball game at Simon Fraser University.

Robinson scored 20 points and was outstanding throughout the game receiving the most valuable player award. He made three consecutive steals at the beginning of the game to unsettle the Metros who trailed, 25-46, at half time.

Alberta's Brock Hilliard, who scored four points, was chosen the game's most sportmanlike player.

Other Island scorers were Ollie Molanau of Victoria High with five, Dave Morgan of Oak Bay with four and Dan Bowen of Alberni with four.

Portadown Wins

BELFAST (Reuters)—Portadown beat Cliftonville 1-0 in an Irish League City Cup soccer game Tuesday.

Russians 'Owe Win To U.S. Ref, Luck'

VIENNA (UPI)—Austrian newspapers said today a North American referee foiled Canada's bid for the 1967 world ice hockey title when he allowed Russia an offside goal which beat the maple leaf sextet.

Austrian sports writers were unanimous in their belief that the second Russian goal in Monday night's 2-1 win over Canada was controversial and should have been called back.

The Vienna Daily expressed its report "The second Russian goal was irregular."

The newspaper continued: "The Russians owed their victory to an enormous amount of luck and to U.S. referee Ted Dally who acknowledged a goal that was clearly offside. The pass that preceded the goal came over two lines, the goal should have been called back."

CANADIANS 'ROBBED'

"Daily robbed the Canadians of two goals in their 1-1 tie against Czechoslovakia earlier in the tournament. We cannot understand why he was entrusted with officiating in this crucial game."

The Kurier, another Viennese daily, carried its report on the front page with a huge headline saying "Canada—we lost through an offside goal."

The newspaper also quoted several international experts as saying that the second Russian goal was "at least" controversial and followed a pass over two lines.

Daily told us after the game "It was a good goal. My Swedish colleague, O. Dahlberg, was standing on the line."

There was no reason to call it "back."

Express, in a second edition today, elaborated on the controversial goal and quoted several international experts on it.

"The Czech hockey player Josef Chapla, who competed in last year's world championships, said it was offside," the newspaper said.

"Chapla was sitting in the stands next to the line. He clearly stated that the second Russian goal was irregular."

Klaus Weingartner, member of the Austrian hockey team, was quoted by Express as saying: "There is no doubt—Starshinov's goal was offside. U.S. referee Ted Dally must have seen it as everybody else. Majorov took a pass over two lines."

Other international experts agreed that the goal was "controversial" but that it will be impossible to establish the truth beyond doubts.

"It was the same doubtful goal as England's tally in the world soccer cup final against West Germany," one expert said. "Nobody will ever be able to clarify the situation beyond any doubt. In both cases, it's only the referee's decision that counts."

SWEDE OFFICIAL CONCURS

Canadian coach Jackie McLeod flatly denied newspaper reports that Canada threatened to abstain from next year's world championships and Olympic tournament at Grenoble, France, because of bad officiation here.

"Nonsense," he said, "of course we will be back next year. They can't keep us from winning forever. We'll make it next year."

Meanwhile in Stockholm, Rudolf Eklof, vice-president of the International Ice Hockey Association, said Tuesday he regarded the goal which gave Russia a 2-1 victory over Canada at Vienna Monday as offside.

"I think the Canadians fought bravely against Tarasov's Bears. They made the fight even, mainly because of intense forechecking, but in the end the Russian pressure decided the match," Eklof said.

"The Russians won quite fairly, even if Pirsov's goal occurred after a misunderstanding among the Canadian defenders. A Russian player was offside when Russia scored the deciding goal," he said.

British Golf Champ In City Tournament

By BRIAN DOHERTY

An 11-year-old boy living in Springs, Transvaal, injured a knee in a bicycle accident and was told to avoid playing rugby.

The sports-minded lad took to chipping golf balls on the front lawn of his home for recreation.

Five years later he was a scratch handicapper.

At 18 years, 21 days, he was the British Amateur golf champion. He is Bobby Cole.

Cole, who will celebrate his 19th birthday next month, has been named a member of the South African team to the Commonwealth tournament scheduled to be played at the Victoria Golf Club August 8 to 12.

TEAM ANNOUNCED

The South African team was announced Tuesday night by Harry Young, chairman of the Victoria Centennial Golf Committee, at a dinner at the Victoria Club.

Also in the Springbok team are C. J. Du Toit, Jonathan Fourie, D. Kemp, R. H. Mullan and Dave Symons. Reserves are H. Baiochi, R. Pybus, and D. Wharton-Hood.

Symons and Fourie were with Cole in the South African team which finished fourth at Australia in the Eisenhower Cup international matches in Mexico City last November.

Manager of the team is P. L. Du Plessis, the immediate past president of the South African Golf Union and the non-playing captain B. T. Keartland, a vice-president of the union.

Cole, who has been called Gary Player's protégé but denies fashioning his game after the professional champion, won the British Amateur last year by beating Ronnie Shade of England, 3 and 2.

After the victory, Cole said his strategy was to play par rather than play the 27-year-old Shade, a capable golfer who was the individual leader in the Eisenhower at Mexico City.

Cole's plan worked and he finished the 16 holes even with the card at Scotland's famed Carnoustie.

TRIED GOLD TRAIL

After the Amateur win, the five-foot nine-inch Cole came to the United States to play the U.S. Amateur and several professional events but without success.

Cole, whose father works at a gold mine, may not be the British Amateur champion when he comes to Victoria. This year's Amateur will be played at Forbury May 29 to June 3.

Clubs within the Victoria district will play host to the visiting teams. Glen Meadows will host New Zealand, Uplands Australia, Gorge Vale South Africa and Colwood Great Britain.

Each member of the winning team will be awarded a gold medal presented by the federal government. The runners-up will receive silver medals and the third placegetters will get bronze medals.

After the committee's finance chairman Lesley McMaster had told the meeting that the budget for the Commonwealth and the Canadian Amateur, to be held a week later, would exceed $30,000, members offered suggestions to help the flagging ticket sales.

TICKETS GOING HOT

About a fifth of the tickets have been sold and Dr. George Bigelow suggested that tickets be sent out by the clubs to members along with the quarterly statements.

Members who declined the tickets would be credited $10 the doctor suggested. The representatives of Colwood, Glen Meadows, Broome Hill, Uplands Gorge Vale and Victoria agreed to the proposal.

Uplands said that it would offer between $200 and $300 worth of tickets in club tournaments before August.

COURTESY LOANED

Mr. Young told the meeting that the Victoria and Colwood courses had been loaned to the Royal Canadian Golf Association for the tournaments and members of the club would have to purchase tickets to get onto the course.

However, they would be given passes to the clubhouse.

Entries for the Canadian Amateur will close at the RCGA's Toronto headquarters Aug. 1 and will be limited to 180.

Geiberger Knudson Clash Here

George Knudson and Al Geiberger, champions of the peanut butter sandwich and 1966 PGA champion, will play a Shell Wonderful World of Golf television match in Victoria June 24.

The match has been offered to the Victoria Golf Club which will be the scene of the Commonwealth tournament August 8 to 12.

The match will not be seen on television until next winter. Hosts are two golf greats, Gene Sarazen and Jimmy Demaret.

The match is stroke play with $7,000 going to the winner.

The lanky Geiberger was 19th on the money list last year, winning $63,230. His big win was the PGA title where he matched play on the difficult Akron, Ohio, course.

Monarchs Knot Up City Puck Series

Tudor Monarchs started Tuesday's Esquimalt Hockey League play-off final action with their back to the wall but came out strongly to dump University of Victoria Vikings, 6-4.

The win kept Monarchs alive in the best-of-five final and evened the series at two games apiece. Deciding game will be held Friday at the Sports Centre at 8 p.m.

Led by the Wayne Anderson, Doug Couch, Orv Coulter line, Monarchs went ahead, 4-0, midway through the second period on goals by each member of the line and Bob Fowler.

Ted Sarkisian got one back for Vikings but Coulter scored what proved to be the winner before the period ended and Dave Stones scored the insurance goal early in the final period on a penalty shot.

Referee Hank Hinkel awarded an unusual trial of three penalty shots in the game with Sarkisian scoring the second of his three-goal effort after being pulled down from behind on a breakaway.

Viking goaltender Ted Hurd foiled Coulter on his penalty shot attempt.

Vikings came back strongly near the end of the game but

with Alec Merriman

THE PART of Juan de Fuca Strait now under consideration as a special sports fishing reserve with all commercial salmon fishing barred covers the Strait from Curtis Point at the northern tip of Strathcona Peninsula to Glacier Point, better known as Point No Point, just east of Jordan River.

This includes all of Area 19, which has William Head as its western boundary and one-third of Area 20 which ends at the controversial Bonilla-Tatoosh surf line, west of Port Renfrew.

This is not the answer anglers sought to provide better sports fishing in Juan de Fuca Strait, but it could be a help.

It is a starting point, particularly since assistant Pacific Area Director Bob McLaren assured this column Tuesday that the proposals are flexible and that investigations will be started this year, with emphasis on local areas and problems, rather than the broad area of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Under the new proposals announced at the weekend by Deputy Fisheries Minister A. W. Needler there would still be a wall of seine and gillnets 40 miles long scooping up the fish ahead of the sports fishing reserve.

How many fish would get past that wall of nets, which would be about 15 miles shorter under the new proposals, would tell how much benefit the proposed sports fishing reserve would be.

Sports anglers had asked for a two-mile net-free corridor along the entire inside of Juan de Fuca, which would mean a continuous passage for the salmon, but much less area as a fishing preserve.

At the weekend Dr. Needler announced: The department is giving careful consideration to closing in the near future Area 19 and possibly a small part of the eastern section of Area 20 to all commercial salmon fishing.

Lower Island fishermen, visualizing a small part of Area 20 to mean possibly as far as Beecher Bay, were angry at the announcement because that would mean absolutely no relief from the wall of nets which concentrate in Area 20 from Sooke to the surf line above Port Renfrew.

The federal fisheries department's B.C. Catch Statistics for 1966 show that commercial netters (all gillnetters) caught a total of 112 hundredweight, or about 12 coho, during the whole season. There just isn't any net fishing for salmon in Area 19. In Area 20 gillnetters took 28,000 hundredweight of coho and seiners 14,842 hundredweight, or about 600,000 coho.

So with a comparison of 12 to 600,000, to give the sports fishermen Area 19 is giving them absolutely no relief from netters.

But a commercial salmon fishing ban in Area 19 would eliminate the putter fleet, the part-time commercial fishermen who fish in small boats with sports gear and sell their fish.

The Pacific Putters' Association had joined with sports fishermen to seek a net-free corridor in Juan de Fuca Strait to allow coho through to hook and line anglers. But, if the salmon fishing reserve goes through they will be the losers, financially, although if it works as the fisheries department hopes they would probably still be able to catch more fish in Juan de Fuca than they do now—but as sports fishermen with a four-salmon limit.

Sports fishermen, particularly members of the Amalgamated Conservation Society, were quick to point out they sought relief from the wall of nets and that trolls were no particular problem in Juan de Fuca.

When it was learned Tuesday that the sports fishing reserve was proposed to reach into Area 20 as far as Point-No-Point, sports fishermen showed more interest. That is not what they sought, but it could bring some relief. Indications are that sports fishermen would accept the idea with reservations and under protest that they really want a corridor through the nets.

They would be more receptive if the fisheries department would show faith by cancelling out the June gillnetting for four and five-pound coho in Juan de Fuca Strait, which only took 356 hundredweight in 1966. These fish could be the ones that used to move through Juan de Fuca to provide a summer fishery.

Last good June-July coho sports fishing in Juan de Fuca was in 1963 when the net fleet was on strike.

The proposed sports fishing reserve won't be much good if commercial nets scoop up the salmon ahead of the reserve. But the proposals would eliminate about 15 miles of water fairly heavily fished by netters, mostly gillnetters, at the tail end of the line from Sooke to Point-No-Point.

This water would be left undisturbed by netters, which should encourage the salmon to come on the bite for anglers. There would be a shorter net wall (40 miles long instead of 65 miles long) and some salmon (which move about 12 miles a day by some estimates) might get by the net area during weekend closures.

Four days a week net fishing is proposed for the coming season.

Where netters used to start right out at Sooke Sunday evenings after the weekend closures and scoop up the fish that had passed through the Strait, under new proposals they would have to start out at Point-No-Point. The salmon in that first 15 miles of water would be the sports fishermen's bonus.

It would also mean 15 miles more of protection water for resident coho in the Sooke-Beecher Bay area.

The sports reserve is not what we wanted, not what we sought, but personally, this columnist is willing to give it a try. If it works we will be happy. If it doesn't we will have to seek other measures later.

Hawks Belt Bellicose Wings In Hard-Hitting Pier Sixer

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Black Hawks defeated Detroit Red Wings 7-2 Tuesday night in one of the roughest National Hockey League games of the season in Chicago Stadium.

Because Chicago has the NHL regular-season title all wrapped up and the Wings are buried in Linemate Ken Wharram added two goals.

Mikita's 60th assist broke the league record he set a few seasons ago.

after being dumped into the boards during a scramble in the corner behind the Detroit cage.

Beside Mikita and Wharram, Chicago goals were scored by Phil Esposito, Ken Hodge, Lou Angotti and Wally Boyer. Bruce MacGregor and Howie Young tallied for Detroit.

Roger Crozier started in the nets for Detroit but was replaced by George Gardner midway through the second period. Denis DeJordy worked the entire game for Chicago.

The game was delayed 51 minutes in the first period due to a broken glass panel. It was shattered when hit by a puck off the stick of Bobby Hull.

Forgery Gear Uncovered

A 23-year-old Esquimalt man equipped to start a forgery spree was remanded for sentence to April 7 when he appeared Tuesday before Magistrate J. A. Byers in central magistrate's court.

Robert Bowen of 512 Constance, also known as Robert George Karcy, pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing instruments to commit forgery after a cheque-writing machine, four unemployment insurance books and a number of social insurance cards were found in his home.

FOUR RECORDS

Detective Thomas Smith told court he noticed the cheque-writing machine when he visited the accused' home last Thursday after Bowen was charged with taking four records from Kelly's on Yates without paying, after being caught by store security officer Harry Mills.

The detective said he returned the following day with a search warrant and found four unemployment insurance books in a china cabinet.

Two social insurance cards were discovered in a canister on top of a cupboard. Other insurance cards were found in a woman's handbag and under a mattress.

Bowen told police he wanted any other charges he may have against him from other parts of the country waived to Victoria. He thinks there are charges against him in Ontario.

Kenneth Buckley, 19, of 878 Rockheights, pleaded guilty to fighting in the 600-block Johnson about 11:55 p.m. March 25 and was fined $20.

A trial was held, even though he failed to appear, for Charles E. Lavery, 898 Colville Road, charged with dangerous driving. The court found him guilty and he was fined $150.

Court Parade

Lavery was charged by police after a two-mile chase at speeds up to 70 miles an hour from the 1300-block Wharf to Phoenix and Craisflower about 2:45 a.m. March 15.

Police said Lavery went through three stop lights and, when finally stopped, told them they would never make the charge stick.

Donald Brown, 19, of 2294 Grove Crescent, was fined $300 after pleading guilty to driving on Government Street about 11 p.m. while impaired.

"I thought I was quite sober," he told the magistrate who replied, "It is a common mistake."

Henry M. Buck, 342 Island Highway, was fined $350 after pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving and William McCoy, 1825 Feltham, was fined $300 after entering a similar plea to a similar charge.

Fined for allowing their dogs to be at large were Olna Moskven, 971 Cloverdale, $250;

Averil Simpson, 1291 Denman, $5, and Donna Vogler, 189 Maddock, $250.

Magistrate Byers remanded Beletta J. Denotter, 1728 Emerson, until April 5 for a presentence report after she pleaded guilty to taking items valued at $9.95 from a downtown department store March 16 without paying.

Fined in traffic court were Ronald Stark, 670 Ker, careless driving, $35; Lloyd Duke, 2170 Lafayette, careless driving, $35; P. S. Kahalam, 768 Market, careless driving, $40; Ronald Larone, 126 Egerton, impaired driving, $300; Gary Watkins, 450 Davida, careless driving, $35.

'Fair Wage Myth'

B.C. Employees Disenchanted

B.C. government employees are extremely disenchanted with the "fair wage myth" of the government, compared with private industries, cities and municipalities.

In the March issue of the Provincial, official publication of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, the government is condemned for its failure to "make its wage rates comparable to those paid in the non-government sector in the B.C. economy."

The newspaper said the Civil Service Commission "has paid lip service" to the principle of putting provincial employees wages on par with comparable positions in other fields.

"Each year the B.C. government employees asked for an independent board of reference and each year this request was refused."

The article said some categories in government service, such as electricians, plumbers and painters are "hopelessly behind comparable 'outside' rates."

The article continues, "How can the Premier claim his government wants to treat its employees fairly when wage rates for many categories of employees even after this year's increases remain 10 to 15 per cent behind those in comparable non-government positions? "The wage increase this year could be classified as fair only if government wages had been kept reasonably close to non-government wages in the past."

GENEVA (UPI)—Swiss police are investigating the disappearance of a "large amount of money"—said to be more than $200,000—from a plane en route here from Beirut.

Change Urged

Centre Policy Pilot?

The provincial government should change its policy and allow privately-practising psychiatrists and physicians to treat patients in the new mental health centre being built in Victoria, it was suggested Monday night.

George Kenwood, executive director of the British Columbia division, Canadian Mental Health Association, said Victoria would be a good place to pilot the new policy.

In Crease Clinic and other institutions at Riverview, only psychiatrists and physicians who have government appointments treat patients.

ON LEE AVENUE

They are referred to them by the private practitioners, Mr. Kenwood explained.

It has been announced the mental health centre being built on Lee Avenue here will cost about $5,000,000 and will have 170 beds. Work started last summer.

Mr. Kenwood also said he hoped the centre would provide all the types of services needed by mental patients.

"If you haven't got that, it will be a splinter service," he added.

Bluecoat Blues

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—At least 60 St. Louis policemen are bemoaning the fact they were overpaid — up to $245 each last year.

A police department spokesman has announced the money paid out due to a clerical error would have to be paid back.

Doctors Study Disposal

A committee of medical doctors has started an investigation of all the effects of sewage disposal on the environment in Greater Victoria.

Dr. R. M. Peet, chairman of the B.C. Medical Association's environmental health committee, said Monday night data is being collected on all possible far-reaching effects of sewage disposal.

The study will be a companion report to last year's Greater Victoria sewage survey, which was a resume of the engineering problems involved in getting rid of human wastes.

The doctors will examine waste disposal's aspects in aquatic and land environments, and how sewage systems can prejudice or enhance the success of living things.

Royal Portrait Presented

A portrait of Queen Elizabeth was given to Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, by Britannia Royal Naval College of Dartmouth, England. The gift, a print of the painting by Pietro Annigoni, was presented at a wardrobe mens dinner by Capt. Peter Moslen, RN, liaison officer who came from Ottawa for the occasion. Group Capt. D. B. Wurtle, commandant, received the gift for the college.

Fleet Home On Waves Of Welcome

By WAYNE THOMAS

Crowds crammed vantage points on Dallas Road and Clover Point Tuesday morning to welcome a flotilla of seven RCN destroyer-escorts which manoeuvred in close formation off-shore.

The welcome was reserved mainly for about 800 officers and men from Victoria on board five of the ships, two returning after three months in the Caribbean and three transferred here from the East Coast fleet at Halifax.

Two Esquimalt-based ships, HMCS St. Croix and Yukon, steamed out from port to greet the arrival and to take part in the sailpast.

The seven ships rendezvoused about a mile out to sea, and led by Capt. J. B. Young, commander of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron, in HMCS Saskatchewan, they steamed in line abreast formation toward Victoria's Outer Wharf.

At the last moment they turned into line astern and cruised along the shore.

Then, on full rudder, and propeller shafts shuddering, the ships turned back along the coastline, with HMCS Saskatchewan racing from the rear at 30 knots to re-take the lead.

While wives, sweethearts and families waited impatiently on the jetties, the ships steamed slowly into HMC Dockyard, with ships' companies at attention and bridge officers peering through binoculars seeking out their loved ones and waving.

There were hundreds of joyous and tearful reunions as sailors who had not seen their wives for months held them close and patted their children's heads.

Dazed Dad Corrected

"No, I'm 12, Daddy," corrected Cheryl Robinson, of 556 Forward Drive, as her father, PO George Robinson of the Saskatchewan told me she was 11.

"She must've had a birthday while I was down there," he said with a dazed smile, still slightly shocked at seeing his wife and four children for the first time since Jan. 5.

The sailors are nearly all due for leave, ranging from a few days to two weeks.

Navy officials described the sailpast of the grey destroyers, each with a red maple leaf on its funnel, as the most impressive held off Victoria in years.

Merging with an overcast sky and grey-black sea, the ships sliced effortlessly through the water, spewing white froth from their sterns while manoeuvring only yards apart at high speed.

HMCS Saskatchewan and Mackenzie were among 11 Canadian vessels to participate in the giant spring naval exercise in the Caribbean, code-named Maple Spring '67 by the Canadian fleet, and based at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

A total of 15,000 U.S., Canadian and British personnel, 60 warships, several squadrons of aircraft and two U.S. Marine divisions were involved.

The exercise itself lasted seven weeks, with Canadian ships being mainly involved with anti-submarine tactics.

RCN vessels also carried out practice surface attacks on other ships and defended themselves against simulated air attacks.

U.S. on War Status

"It was a real pleasure to a late-model DDE vessel), Al-work with the U.S. ships," said gonquin and Crescent, both Capt. Young. "They are at war. Second World War ships. soon we are not, and the difference after leaving the Panama Canal was marked.

"I think we all learned a lot from them. They are professional and for them it's learn to kill, or be killed. Some of the ships involved are off to Vietnam soon," he said.

Capt. Young, 44, who has served in the Pacific and Columbia is lived in Victoria since last July scheduled for an overhaul in at 2130 Central Avenue with his wife and three daughters, is tanned brown by the Caribbean sun, as are most of his officers and men.

"It's like a cold hell to come back to this," indicated LS Dave Smith of Cowichan Lake, at the draft southeast wind and choppy seas.

Esquimalt-based Saskatchewan and Mackenzie were added with a smile. "Though joined by the East Coast destroyer-escorts Columbia (also welcome."

KISS AND YELP of joy by boxer Cleopatra at the sight of her master CPO Brian Pope, 3738 Tillicum, when he returned on HMCS Crescent after several months attached to the east coast fleet in Halifax. CPO Pope was one of 1,100 officers and men who arrived in HMC Dockyard Tuesday on five RCN destroyer-escorts.—(Jim Ryan)

After all the money the Colony has paid the Navigation Company, to think that they would refuse to carry our mails as freight!

Mr. McCrea yesterday sold the up-river steamer Enterprise for $8,800. Mr. Edgar Macle was the purchaser. The boat was built in 1903 by G. B. Wright. She cost originally $20,000 and is estimated to have earned her cost three times over. The steamer will be placed in immediate running order.

Crisis Report Awaited

Student Vote Averts Boycott of Classes

By BILL STAVDAL

A threatened student boycott of classes at the University of Victoria was averted by the vote of a mass meeting Tuesday.

About 1,500 students — nearly half the university's enrolment — voted overwhelmingly to wait until next Wednesday, when university president Malcolm Taylor will give a report on the current faculty crisis, triggered by three dismissals.

What he says will be influenced by a meeting of the joint faculties — teachers and administration — to be held Tuesday. It will be the first explanation of its position by the administration.

DOCUMENT

The outcome of Tuesday's meeting will partly depend on a document to be made public Monday. It is the report of the Canadian Association of University Teachers, which investigated a charge of violation of academic freedom.

The charge was made by Dr. Charles Tarlton, an assistant professor of political science, whose contract was not renewed by the university this winter.

Also dismissed were English lecturer J. S. Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie, an English instructor.

NO EXPLANATION

Students, the dismissed faculty and three other teachers who have resigned in protest have all charged that the firings were motivated by non-academic factors.

The administration has given no explanation, even to the dismissed men. At Tuesday's meeting students applauded two past presidents of the student council who urged delay of any protest action.

They were Paul Williamson and Stephen Bigsby.

DELEGATION

Mr. Williamson and Mr. Bigsby, together with fine arts Professor Tony Emery and Dr. Peter Smith, head of the classics department, formed a delegation which met Dr. Taylor before noon Tuesday.

Dr. Taylor told them of the forthcoming joint faculties meeting and offered to address the students Wednesday, Mr. Williamson announced.

The students passed a resolution commending Dr. Taylor for agreeing to speak before the students.

DEAN CRITICIZED

The group also passed a resolution strongly critical of Dr. Alex Wood, dean of arts and science. Dr. Wood headed a review committee which agreed not to renew the contracts of Dr. Tarlton, Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Mackenzie.

The resolution concerning Dr. Wood was proposed by Nan Elliot, a former secretary of the Alma Mater Society.

It said that the contract terminations constituted "a gross repudiation of academic freedom" and charged coercion by unnamed faculty members who allegedly threatened to resign unless the three were dismissed.

The other resolution, concerning Dr. Taylor, said in part:

LACK OF CONFIDENCE

The resolution charged Dr. Wood and Ronald Jeffels, dean of student affairs, "impugned the characters" of the dismissed faculty members during conversations with students.

It expressed "lack of confidence in the actions of the dean of arts and science."

The resolution, reaffirming belief in toleration of diversity and a democratic assessment of faculty members on academic grounds only by their peers."

About half a dozen raised hands opposed both resolutions.

Mr. Williamson, in urging a delay of any student protest, said:

"Until we hear from that (Tuesday) meeting, I suggest we throw our support behind Dr. Taylor."

"Let us express our confidence in his ability to salvage this thing next week."

RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Bigsby, immediate past president of the student council, said:

"We have a responsibility to allow those people who have a stake in the university (the faculty) to make a decision for themselves."

"The decision made then will shape the university for years to come," said Mr. Bigsby.

GIVE OPPORTUNITY

He declared himself against any attempt to overthrow the basic structure of the university.

Of Dr. Taylor, he said:

"I'm not sure we're throwing our support behind a true white knight in shining armor. But I think we should give him the opportunity to clatter into battle."

Mr. Bigsby opposed a non-confidence motion in Dr. Taylor which had previously been intended to go to a vote at Tuesday's meeting.

STREUGGLE

A non-confidence motion would put a gun to the head of moderates on the faculty in next Tuesday's joint faculties meeting, he said.

Mr. Williamson added:

"We must realize there is a struggle going on between liberal and conservative elements" in the faculty and administration.

Mr. Williamson said that contract terminations should be decided by the faculty.

"They should not be threatened by the dean. They should not be threatened by us," he said, drawing applause.

Faculty Letter Protests Taylor Charge

An open letter signed by 31 faculty members of the University of Victoria protests president Malcolm Taylor's charge last week that "certain elements" are trying to damage the university's reputation.

The letter was delivered to Dr. Taylor on Tuesday. It refers to a statement made by Dr. Taylor in connection with the dismissals of Dr. Charles Tarlton, J. S. Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie.

It concludes:

"This statement is unfortunate in many ways. It attaches to any questioning of administrative decisions and procedures."

It concludes:

"This letter is written by colleagues who agree on the issues presented above but who may well disagree on others, and is not prompted by any specific 'element' on campus or by any malicious intent."

In his letter to all faculty members, Dr. Taylor said, in part:

"It seems to me now that certain elements are determined to undermine—perhaps even destroy—the professional standing of the faculty and the good name of the university."

REGINA — The resignation of the entire CCF opposition in the Saskatchewan legislature has been demanded by Athabasca Liberal M.L.A. R. Guy.

He claims former CCF cabinet ministers and MLAs diverted $500,000 in public funds to their party through the party-owned Service Printing Co. of Regina during the last four years of CCF rule. The CCF immediately said the company lost money and service manager William Blackburn said it hasn't received any government printing contracts since the Liberals won in 1964.

NEW ORLEANS — Sheriff Louis Heyd said Mrs. Sandra Moffitt McMaines has been arrested in Omaha as a material witness in the Kennedy "plot" inquiry. Now a minister's wife, she has denied the statement of star witness Perry Russo that she attended with Russo a 1963 party where Clay Shaw, David Ferrie and Lee Harvey Oswald hatched the plot.

Enchanted Princess

Bastion Scores With Children

By BILL THOMAS

Bastion Theatre's enviable reputation for producing first-rate children's entertainments can only be enhanced by The Enchanted Princess.

A crowd of youngsters clapped and yelled their appreciation Tuesday afternoon at the McPherson Playhouse as the actors used all the traditional ploys, magic glasses, a prince and a wicked magician.

The production makes minimum use of sets and properties, relying on the imaginations of the young audience to fill in all the gaps of fantasy needed for complete success.

Paul Blakey is a prince who dances well and, as is to be expected, he covets his way into the heart of the living-doll Wendy Packard.

Miss Packard is under the influence of a wicked magician, played by Eugene Gallant.

Mr. Gallant schemes beautifully but his acting is a bit distracting as he bears a strong resemblance to the late Neville Chamberlain, a fact that probably goes unnoticed by most children.

The incomparable team of Bill and Sylvia Hostie is as usual, excellent. They play the ambitious father and mother of the doll who comes to life.

Glenn MacDonald, who did such a fine job as the Dodger in Oliver, plays the Prince's Lord Chancellor, a small character part which he performs well.

John Heath is responsible for the adaptation and direction of this musical play and he had made a notable contribution to theatre for children. It is to be hoped that Bastion will entrust him with future productions. The Enchanted Princess continues with a matinee each day until April 1.

Throughout the run of this show, Bastion Theatre is exhibiting the work of the winners in the local division of the World Theatre Day poster contest. Winners are:

Group 1 (pre-school), Rosanne Farnden, Erich Billung-Meyer, and Jeremy Oldham. Group 2 (Grades 1 to 3) Christopher Sequeira, Gary Farnden, Darlene Sagmoen. Group 3 (Grades 4 to 7) Teresa Low, Jesse White, Adele Morris.

Amnesty Saves Two Bishops In Manuscript Theft Case

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Jordanian government accused two Armenian bishops and a layman Sunday of complicity in the theft of 28 precious biblical manuscripts from the Armenian Catholic cathedral here. But the charges were dropped under an amnesty decree.

The illuminated manuscripts, studded with gems and bound in gold, disappeared from the vault of the Jerusalem patriarchate in 1958.

Twenty-three of the manuscripts turned up last month at Sotheby's, a well-known London auction house, which scheduled a sale for March 16 and said the manuscripts could bring $1,400,000.

But the sale was cancelled after the Armenian archbishop, Most Rev. Benak Tumanyan, threatened to sue to block it. Sotheby's returned the manuscripts to the church, but has not sold publicly who offered them for sale.

The public prosecutor, acting in the name of King Hussein, charged 35-year-old Bishop Souren Kemhadjian, Bishop

Shook Kalustian and a layman identified as A. Sandrikian in connection with removal of the manuscripts from the church. But the Jerusalem district attorney ruled the theft came under a general amnesty for all crimes other than espionage proclaimed by King Hussein in April, 1965, when his brother became crown prince. The prosecutor did not say whether any of the three accused had been arrested.

Causeway Cast In New Role

Improvements to Gorge Park are beginning to work, but slowly. While most people who went to area Tuesday for fishing wound up at traditional bridge spots, this enterprising youngster used new causeway near bridge for his piscatorial efforts. He was unwilling to report success or failure. — (William E. John)

Vanier:

Family Ties Vital

TORONTO (CP) — The day before he died March 5, Governor-General Vanier dictated his spiritual will for the people of Canada to his old friend Dr. Wilfred Penfield.

Monday night, Dr. Penfield, 76, a Montreal neurosurgeon and president of the Vanier Institute of the Family, repeated the will to a husband, standing-room-only audience of the Ontario Educational Association.

"I want the people, poor as well as rich, to understand that it will help each of them in every province to build a strong wholesome family life."

"It will answer their questions and make suggestions. Beyond that it will bring pressure, through public information, to improve the environment, outside the home, for child and parent alike."

"We want the people's interest now, and want them to feel they have a helping hand within the measure of their own means. The widow's mite has its own peculiar value and we will be very grateful for every effort."

Dr. Penfield said Gov.-Gen. Vanier had called him to discuss the family institute, founded by the Governor-General and Mrs. Vanier, to promote strong family ties. He reread the message and said: "There is a crisis in the family. It is time for men and women to take action. We can control our civilization."

The next morning, he died.

Troubled Waters For Oil

VANCOUVER (CP) — The threat of more labor trouble hangs over the Canadian oil industry, an oil union spokesman warned Tuesday.

R. J. Philip, west coast international representative for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, said bargaining is reaching the crisis point. Philip is heading national contract negotiations.

The union, which was strike-bound for 14 weeks in 1965, has applied for a compensation officer in B.C.

Mr. Philip said the move followed an offer from three companies, Imperial, Shell and British-American, of a wage increase of about 4 1/2 per cent in a one-year contract.

The union seeks a 20 per cent increase.

Pay Soars In 1966

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian workers were paid 12.5 per cent more in salaries and wages last year than in 1965, federal figures disclosed Tuesday — up to $28,121,000,000 from $25,061,000,000. B.C.'s $3,123,000,000 was up 14.3 per cent.

Governor-General, Cabinet

Announcements Pledged By Pearson Next Week

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson has promised announcements of interest and general importance next week, possibly appointment of a new governor-general and a shuffle of the federal cabinet.

He met a cabinet executive committee Tuesday after a two-week Caribbean vacation and scheduled a meeting of all the ministers for early next week on his return from receiving an honorary degree at University of California at Santa Barbara.

He indicated that anything of general interest will be made public in the Commons, which resumes sitting next Monday.

NO DISCUSSION
He declined to discuss a successor as governor-general to Gen. Georges P. Vanier who died three weeks ago, except to say the announcement will be made simultaneously in London and here.

When asked whether other announcements might be about cabinet changes, he replied, with a grin, "I didn't mention cabinet changes."

Mr. Pearson said the government's bill to unify the navy, army and air force into a single service is a top item for the Commons and will go ahead "at the very earliest date."

ANOTHER SESSION
Along with the defence bill, Mr. Pearson listed a committee report on rules changes and spending powers for May as items for the Commons to deal with before the current session ends. There were "some others" which he did not enumerate.

He indicated that a new parliamentary session will be opened right after the present one ends, possibly with a week-end break between the two. He said dates should be fixed soon for the visits of President Johnson and President de Gaulle of France. They will come to Ottawa first before heading to Montreal for Expo. He said he will consult legal experts before replying to Mr. Justice Leo Landreville who has asked that he be heard in the Commons or that the Supreme Court of Canada examine his stock dealings.

Mr. Pearson leaves today for a luncheon address in Calgary and to receive an honorary degree at the University of Calgary tonight. He will hold a press conference Thursday before flying to Vancouver. He attends a private dinner of the Canadian Institute for International Affairs Thursday night and Friday holds a press conference. He leaves Vancouver harbor and addresses a Liberal party dinner.

He flies to Santa Barbara Sunday and receives a degree and addresses the university Monday night.

Expo-Bound? Think Pink

MONTREAL (CP) — A Canadian inter-provincial liability card is sufficient proof of car insurance in the province of Quebec, says Jean-Louis Dubois, secretary-manager of the Quebec Insurance Brokers Association.

He said this in an interview Tuesday following a warning by a Toronto insurance agency to its clients that their cars could be seized if involved in property damage accidents while in Quebec during Expo '67.

RARELY USED
The Quebec law stating that a non-resident of Quebec could be served with a writ of seizure if he should damage property of a resident is rarely used, said Mr. Dubois. A liability card would protect a driver in case of an accident.

A spokesman for the All-Canadian Insurance Federation said Tuesday all Canadian insurance companies have issued these pink liability slips to their clients.

He said the federation also has conducted a widespread campaign in the United States to inform U.S. drivers of the necessity of possessing proof of insurance when visiting Quebec.

Home Is Sailor But Ship, Too

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The navy now has about 7,000 sailors at sea compared with some 10,000 three years ago, officials disclosed Tuesday.

They said this can be good or bad, depending upon how you look at it.

Generally, they added, the Canadian sailor looks on it as good.

In 1964, the navy had 65 per cent of its 20,789 personnel at sea at all times, a world record for navies in peacetime.

"SPLIT OUR GUTS"

"We split our guts," Vice-Admiral H. S. Rayner, then chief of naval staff and now retired, testified recently before the Commons defence committee.

But sailors were at sea so long and at home so little that morale was hurt. A new system was established mapping out long-range plans so that each sailor would know exactly how long he would be at sea and ashore.

SMALLER PERCENTAGE

Now 38 per cent of the navy's 18,236 personnel are on the briny.

But the result has been that some ships have been tied up. Officials explained that not all sailors can count on spending 65 per cent of their time ashore with their families.

They said there is such a shortage of electrical technicians that 65 per cent of them are at sea now. By the same token, torpedomen and marine engineer technicians are at sea 60 per cent of their time. But medical personnel are aboard ships only 10 per cent of the time.

Boatswains, armament control men, sonar men, radar plotters and hull technicians are at sea more than half the time whereas clerks are ashore 80 per cent of the time. Informants said these differences present a morale problem. Moreover, a sailor was less likely to sign on again for further periods of service if he felt he was spending too much time at sea.

Gagliardi Not Seeking Sacred Leadership

"I'm not after any national leadership. I'm happy in British Columbia... happy in the job I'm able to do here," Highway Minister Gagliardi said Tuesday.

He was commenting on a request by Manitoba Social Crediters to stand for the party's national leadership.

Walter Bowden, director of the Manitoba Social Credit League, said Mr. Gagliardi was the choice of the majority of league members at a recent meeting.

Mr. Bowden said Mr. Gagliardi told him some time ago he would consider the leadership of the party but he would not accept Robert Thompson, who recently announced his resignation.

Mr. Gagliardi said Mr.

Bowden must have misunderstood him because what he really said was that a national leadership convention is necessary.

"I never said I wanted the post," the minister said.

Mr. Gagliardi Monday denied newspaper reports inferring he took his department's Lear jet on a flight to Las Vegas.

He said the aircraft has never been to the Nevada gambling capital.

Chess Tourney

Victoria Expert Invited

Victoria chess expert Ray Kerr will be invited as one of 12 participants in a centennial chess tournament at Vancouver during the 1967 year-end holidays. B.C. Chess Federation tournament director Colin Aylroyd of Vancouver said Tuesday.

The 13 will include six from B.C. and six from Washington, Oregon and California, with the Canadians also numbering Mr. Aylroyd and Elod Macdonald of Vancouver, who shared first place in the B.C. championship last weekend.

OTHERS UNDECIDED
Another B.C. participant will be chess master Duncan Rutledge of Vancouver, rated among the top 20 in the U.S. The other two B.C. players and the six Americans have not yet been decided.

Most will be at the University of Victoria for the special B.C. centennial open championship May 30 and 31.

Mr. Aylroyd also announced a trip by five B.C. university players to Russia has been cancelled due to financial difficulties.

Equusmalt pioneers will be honored today at Oak Bay Beach Hotel will be the scene of the Oak Bay reception Thursday, said Red Linn, motor inn will be host to winners from Seattle and Central Seaside on Friday.

A feature of the program was the music of a string trio directed by Billy Tickle. A sing-song was held and the old people came through strong and clear. Such numbers as "Love's Old Sweet Song."

IWA Official Defends International

PORT ALBERT—"It is as much in the interests of Albert Valley workers to see that forest products workers in Alabama, Missouri and Tennessee get a fair shake, as it is to see those on the Mainland are protected."

Walter Allen, president of Local 1-85 of the International Woodworkers of America, made the statement as he explained the case for an international union compared with unions from some members, including a small group of Fraser River, that an all-Canadian union should be sought.

The idea of one union to cover all employees in the forest products industry must not be limited to British Columbia, nor to Canada, but must cover all of North America, now that Canadian employees are branching out into the United States, Mr. Allen asserted.

"Perhaps a Canadian union would be fine if all Canadian companies operated solely in Canada and not outside, and if American operations did not affect us here in Canada," Mr. Allen said.

"But as an example, MacMillan Bloedel now has expanded into Alabama. In some states wages are still pegged as low as $1.40 an hour. Legislation on wages often covers groups of 15 or more workers. Contractors and subcontractors in the woods take care to keep wages smaller than the legal requirement, and can then pay them even lower wages."

"If a tight money situation ever forced a shutdown in B.C. or B's plywood operations, let us say, which one would it be? It would be the brand-new plant in Alabama with the most modern equipment and wages of $1.40 an hour, or the plant in B.C.?"

Mr. Allen was replying specifically to a statement by Ben Parsons, a faller at Franklin and B's member of a sub-unit, who has been quoted as favoring a Canadian union and saying "Canadian workers first, internationalism afterwards."

Fire Burns Gas Station

One fire was caught in time but another caused nearly $40,000 damage in two separate Island locations Tuesday morning.

A flash fire at Nanaimo's Palm Dairies was under control in less than an hour, with the damage restricted to smoke and water.

But in Pothville, the early-morning fire at Bates-Kao service station was described by Fire Chief W. G. Wheeler as "one of the worst blazes to smolder in the history of the volunteer fire department."

The fire, which broke out at about 5:30 a.m., appeared to start around a rack of new tires. The firemen were hampered by a dense smoke produced by burning rubber and oil.

Although the blazes were nearly $40,000, the firemen prevented the flames from reaching the gasoline pumps and storage tanks.

Still going
An service station proprietor George Bates reports the station still in business with gas pumps running and a new stock of tires coming in.

The Nanaimo fire, at 1000 1/2 and ice cream processing plant, started about 9 a.m.

Ken Morgan, a salesman, had left the plant around 8:35 and by 9 o'clock smoke rose from the building.

Alert neighbors notified the Nanaimo fire department and the firemen arrived within 15 minutes, containing the flames to smoke in half an hour.

FRAGILE ACTION
The prompt action saved $10,000 worth of refrigerated stock, only 25 feet from the fire.

"By that time the fire department is right on the ball," Mr. Morgan said.

She had seen the smoke and reported the fire only seconds later.

Arrests in Calgary Protested in U.S.

NEW YORK (CP)—Twenty-five youthful artists demonstrated Tuesday in front of the building housing the Canadian consulate in protest of the arrest of three pantheists in Calgary on marijuana charges.

Their spokesman, Emmett Grogan, Grego Corso and poet Allan Ginsberg, said the three San Francisco men charged in Calgary were harassed.

In a letter to the consulate, signed by Sandra Archer, chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee of Artists, the charge was made that there were "irregularities and peculiar circumstances" surrounding the arrests.

The demonstrators said the three men were arrested March 14 and 15 in Calgary, where they had gone to perform as members of a group called the San Francisco Diggers. Their scheduled performance was cancelled by university officials, the demonstrators said, after the arrest of the first actor.

A spokesman for the consulate said the protest should have been made to U.S. officials in Canada. They said the Canadian consulate in New York is charged with the duty of protecting the rights of Canadians in the U.S.

A consulate spokesman said the artists' message would be transmitted to Canadian officials.

Scroll for Centenarian

First of framed scrolls from federal government honoring centenarians during centennial year was presented Tuesday by Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton to Edgar Cromley, who will be 104 in December. Ontario-born Mr. Cromley came west in 1882, retired to Victoria after many years as hardware merchant in Oxbow, Sask., and lives at Oak Lodge Hospital. (Jim Ryan)

Breakthrough?

Virus Gives Clue In Leukemia Probe

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters)—The director of an internationally known research institute says three scientists—two Australians and an American—may have discovered the cause of leukemia.

Their work with bone marrow cells has led them to believe the disease results from widespread viruses, which only become effective when certain conditions are present in the host organism.

Prof. G. J. V. Nossal, director of the Walter and Eliza Hall Institute of Medical Research, said Monday the scientists are William W. Robinson of the University of Colorado Medical Centre in Denver and Australian Donald Metcalf and Ray Bradley.

Nossal said in an interview that research strongly indicates that viruses cause leukemia in animals and that the viruses are present throughout the animal world.

"These viruses cause no harm in the majority of animals but can cause leukemia when the right genetic factors are present in the host," he said.

He said the three scientists' research led them to believe the same situation applies to humans.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver youth who had a nightmare ride on an LSD "trip," said Tuesday he never wants to make the journey again.

Fred Sabine, 19, "freaked out" after taking the hallucinatory drug, and said he encountered people who tried to bite his head off, cockroaches running down alleys, strange colors bursting around him, streets cracking apart and buildings caving in.

After a severe recurrence of hallucinations five weeks after his last shot of LSD, Sabine said he is not only through with the drug, he is even going to get his "hair chopped off and get back to normal."

The youth was released from hospital Monday night after treatment for what police called severe depression, manic activity and sensory hallucinations.

He said hospital authorities gave him pills to calm him down and he has made an appointment with a psychiatrist for further treatment.

And he said a doctor told him the hallucinations could recur for up to a year.

He said at one point following his frightening experience he cut his left wrist after a fight with a friend. He felt like committing suicide even after he left the hospital Monday.

Sabine said he first took a 250-microgram dose some six weeks ago, after hearing someone say it could stop his heavy drinking.

He saw strange colors, designs flowing all over the place.

"Walking down the street was like walking between pictures," said Sabine.

He walked onto a bridge and the city looked like a little model.

He was depressed and, if anyone touched him, he felt extreme pain.

The trip lasted eight to 10 hours, and after that he felt normal. But a week later he went on another trip.

"Six of us took it. We walked to the library and around downtown. It had the same effect only it seemed to last longer."

"When we started going down I heard someone say 'Who wants to stay up on the trip?'" Sabine said.

He said he then took a second dose. "Fifteen minutes later I freaked out. . . . People were trying to bite my head off. I could see big cockroaches running down the alleys. . . ."

"After a while I started to calm down. That night I felt like a human vegetable."

The next night he was drinking beer at this sister's apartment and felt as if someone was trying to suck him into the beer bottle.

Most thoughtful we anticipate every need — faithfully we observe every wish.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

A publisher's representative will be in Victoria in May. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for material for new books. All subjects will be carefully selected for style and content, and will be published in a series of books.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to the representative (address below) for a free reading and evaluation. He will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

Shorter than Shortie

Gloves Important

By KARIN MONER

MONTREAL (CP) — Hands are sexier than hips or lips, says Lily Monk, who has made the study and dressing up of hands her life's work.

"Just look at your hands. Look at the graceful form the fingers take, each one different, each finger tapered to its own special length for its own special function, to grip, to show, play a piano, wield a pen or a paintbrush.

The touch of a hand conveys human feelings far better than words. Just think of your own response to a gentle caress, the silent clasp of fingers, the pat on the back, to someone tickling you!

"It is because the hand is such a lovely sensual instrument that its care and appearance are of prime importance to me."

A leading designer for Paris Glove of Canada Ltd., Mrs. Monk — known to the public as Lily of Paris — is concerned about the current creation of the "bare look" by fashion designers and the spontaneous adoption of the new look by the younger set.

"We are baring knuckles, knees and navels in an effort to show as much as possible. Little do the younger set realize that femininity is a game, a playful teasing game, and that a slightly covered-up look is far more appealing to the male."

Gloves are the most important accessories of any outfit, says Mrs. Monk who creates some 100 new designs twice a year.

MUST FOR WEDDING

"But I have this year taken the bare look into consideration and created a miniskini glove which is shorter than the shortie and is designed to go with today's kinky young fashions. These gloves are cutout and perforated and snapbuckled for maximum comfort."

A woman should always wear gloves on the streets of cities and large towns, when going to church, a luncheon, dinner or reception, dance, wedding or official function, says Mrs. Monk. Gloves should also be worn to a restaurant and in the theatre.

Bride Feted At Parties

Mrs. Gregory Gordon, the former Nancy Roy, was honored at several post-wedding showers. Mrs. B. Hammond entertained for the bride at her Foul Bay Road home and among the guests were Mrs. N. Hoy and Mrs. M. Gordon, bride's mother and mother-in-law.

Other guests were Mrs. R. Chan, Mrs. G. Courie, Mrs. M. Arnold, Mrs. R. Kennedy, Mrs. M. Lempham, Mrs. J. King, Mrs. A. Genest (bride's grandmother), Mrs. D. Cornish, Mrs. L. Midlane, Mrs. J. When Skin Sags on Face and Neck
Even skin that sags and is no longer smooth, could be made firm and much younger looking. That "older look" usually appears first around the throat, but is unfortunately easy to treat by very simple means that require no skill at all.
Get 2nd Defat with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength from your drug or dept. store and apply it gently to your throat and face each night before retiring. After just a few days, you will notice your skin becoming firmer again and smoother. That is because the 2nd Defat has retained your skin with a new supply of water from the surface clear into the inner skin.

Dress Accessory

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD

There have been so many false alarms about the comeback of hats, that it's better to comment, almost in a whisper, that it's happening.

Hats, as a generic item that every woman has to wear, aren't back, but one hat certainly is. Whether it comes from Paris, London or one of New York's top milliners, it's essentially the same hat with lots of variations.

Though the new hat isn't really new — in fact the effect is extraordinarily feminine — it is basically the kind of hat men wear or used to wear. It is simple, bold shape with no decoration except a ribbon band. It is the complete opposite of what the hat was when the whole head hat syndrome collapsed from the sheer weight of its whimsy.

In its own way the new hat has its own kind of tongue-in-cheek attitude, because its form is inspired by all kinds of male adventures. It has some of the features of the cowboy, the forest ranger, the Aussie in uniform and the white hunter on safari in Africa. Every once in a while there's a crowned or dented crown that suggests an elegant Englishman.

As it happens in fashion nowadays, the hat seemed to pop up in every country about the same time. The recent Paris collections were full of adventurer hats that have just arrived here. At Orlbach's the other day, Barbara Streisand, always a hat girl, bought Yves Saint Laurent's big, white slouch hat and the safari hat that goes with Dior's African look.

American milliners got the same message just as soon as not earlier. Adolfo's slouch hat with narrow chin ties was a smash hit a couple of seasons ago. Halston showed his big, white roller. Adolfo did the fedora. Slouch hats were the thing in Sally Victor's and Mr. John's collections. Wherever they come from, none of this season's hats bear the slightest resemblance to what was classed as a feminine feible. The new hats are an important part of the over-all look. They add a lot of interest and elegance to the somewhat over-simplified little girl shape of clothes.

With the little wisp of a dress or the mini-skirt, all the accessories have become a thousand times more important. They are as important that Rudi Gernreich came out with the truth the other day. The dress has become the accessory and what we used to call accessories have become the serious fashion he says.

Of all the bits of serious fashion — though it's a tom-up with shoes and stockings for importance — the hat right now is the most exciting. Barbara Streisand, who has been busy playing the little number for a couple of months, was back at her old love, fashion, the other day. She went through Orlbach's import collection for four straight hours. She bought Marc Bohan's shirt coat and the "Jungle" suit, Ungaro's white coat, Cardin's a muslin raincoat with the Industrial zipper and the Cardin dress with the white monogram and belt that just about every woman who saw the show has ordered, too. Barbara bought all the designers' chemois in shoes and stockings, too.

Matching fabric and wallpaper can give importance to a small, guest bedroom. This stylish black-and-white print fabric is laminated on the white-down shade, providing pleasing continuity in the room. Black ball fringe trims both shade and draperies; two added drapery panels continue over the bed to create the effect of a headboard. Lavish use of one bold print like this gives decorating impact, yet does not overpower a small room. Other colors in the room are keyed to the fabric—a good point to remember when you start your scheme with a distinctive pattern.—(Better Homes and Gardens)

Malerby-Bowen

Bride Carries Roses

Spring flowers in lemon, white and mauve tones decorated St. Christopher's Anglican Church Saturday when Judith Kathy Bowen exchanged vows with Francis Ennor Malerby.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Bowen, 3905 Cherrilee Crescent; Mrs. J. W. B. Malerby, 750 Lily Avenue, and the late Mr. Malerby.

Canon R. White officiated and organist was Mrs. J. Buttlock. The bride's floor-length gown of white silk crepe had an empire line to its bodice and a skirt that was slightly draped and on train. The gown was topped with a short lace jacket that had wide belted sleeves. A single tulle rose held her waist-length three-tiered veil of silk. She carried a colonial bouquet of cream tone roses intertwined with ivy. She was given in marriage by her father.

Identical floor-length gowns of pale lemon yellow crepe, styled on empire lines, were the choice of matron of honor, Mrs. David Titterton, and bridesmaid, Miss Beverly Bravender. Their tanning bow headpieces were edged in net. White carnations, clipped with mauve, were in their seasonal bouquets.

R. Glen MacDonald was best man and ushering guests were the bride's cousin, David Titterton, and Stephen Malerby, single tulle rose held her waist-

A reception followed at the Carlton Club.

The bride's mother and aunt had made the three-tier wedding cake that centred the head table. It was surrounded with white and lemon tulle and flanked with arrangements of spring flowers.

G. D. Titterton proposed the toast to his niece's happiness. As her going-away outfit, the bride chose an Italian knit suit in peacock green, tanning hat and scarf and black accessories. Her carriage was of white roses.

After a honeymoon in the western part of the United States, the newlyweds will make their home at 1737 Fulham Road.

Council Flies U.S.-Made Kite

Dog Tickets May Ease Saanich Pet Problem

By JOHN MATTERS

Some members of Saanich council have a plan up their sleeves which will take the sting out of the municipality's proposed beast, bird and bee bylaw.

Instead of hauling into court people who allow their dogs to roam, the idea would see enforcement officers issue dog tickets, something like parking tickets.

The dog ticket would not involve a court appearance and, unless the offence was repetitive, would not bring heavy penalties.

A bylaw which Saanich council has yet to formally consider would impose fines ranging from $10 to $200 for any violations of conditions for keeping animals, birds or bees.

The councillors who are studying the dog ticket idea heard of the scheme from a United States city, where it was exceedingly effective.

In that city, dog tickets have had a tremendous psychological effect, with more people than ever seriously attempting to comply with the animal control laws.

Dozens of Saanich people have been fined in court recently for allowing their dogs to roam at large. A number of sheep have been killed by such animals.

The dog ticket system in the U.S. city was accompanied by stricter impoundment policies.

"Impoundment is attempted first because past experience has shown that less than half of all impounded dogs are claimed," said the Americans.

"When an owner fails to claim his dog, it is our feeling that both the dog owner and probably his neighbors, as well as the dog, are better off."

NINE CLAIMED
"In the nearly three months that these tickets have been used, some 45 dogs have been impounded. Only nine have been claimed."

Saanich has invited comment, preferably in writing, from all individuals and groups interested in its new animal bylaw. All comments will be considered before the bylaw is finally adopted.

Cancer Drive April 1

The Canadian Cancer Society's B.C.-Yukon division will begin its annual month-long fund-raising drive April 1, chairman Stanley Moore announced Tuesday night. The target is $410,000 — $10,000 more than last year.

Mr. Moore and Frank Nicholson, secretary, will be in charge of the drive in Victoria.

Campaign chairman C. D. Wilson of Vancouver reported to the recent annual conference in the mainland city, that the 1966 campaign was an outstanding success. The target was $400,000 and collections totalled $432,778.

The importance of regular medical checkups to detect cancer in its earliest stages was stressed repeatedly by speakers at the conference.

They emphasized that most cancers, when detected in the early stages, are curable.

Funeral Held Tuesday For McGill Daughter

Funeral services were held in McGill's chapel Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Margaret (Bobbie) Macquellin Allison, 33, of Willowdale, Ont., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McGill, 3441 Mayfair Drive.

Mrs. Allison, who was well-known in Victoria music circles, died of complications following an operation Good Friday in Willowdale.

She began her musical studies as a young girl under Victoria artist Percy Humphrey. She and her two sisters played as a trio and she was a member of the Victoria Junior Symphony Orchestra which played here in the 1940s.

Mrs. Allison was also active in a musical way in the Children's Garden Library on Tattersall Drive, operated by her mother.

She was student at Cloverdale and Mount View high schools. She took a business course here before joining Canadian Pacific Airlines in Vancouver. Her husband, Robert, was then a CPA pilot and later entered the insurance business in Toronto.

In addition to her husband and parents, Mrs. Allison leaves her daughter, Lynn, and two sisters, Mrs. Roger (Edith) Galloway of Oakland, Calif., and Mrs. James (Trudie) Duxbury of Victoria.

Rev. Norman Archer officiated at the funeral service.

Colquitz Survey

Reeve Supports Appeal for Creek

Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich Tuesday night endorsed plans for the rehabilitation of Colquitz Creek.

"The creek affects a huge portion of this municipality and if we could do something to save it, it would be well-worth the additional expense," he told a meeting of council's lands and planning committee.

Committee members were discussing a suggestion from municipal engineer Neville Life that a works department instrument man make a survey of the creek's physical features.

DECISION LEFT

The instrumentman would work six months of this year on the Colquitz Creek study and in 1968 he would be diverted to other major projects planned by the municipality.

A decision on whether this person will be hired was left for later council meetings at which the 1967 budget will be discussed.

Demands to stop pollution of the creek and restore some of its natural waterfalls and bends have come from naturalists for several years.

Post Office Coming In Saanich

The first postal station in the Greater Victoria area will be built this summer in Saanich, it was learned Tuesday.

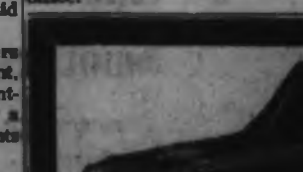

At Saanich Road and Oak Street, it will relieve the main post office of 20 per cent of its mail delivery load.

Post office officials also explained that Postal Station A, as it will be called, is going into Saanich because that is the direction of population and business growth.

In addition to being the headquarters for 16 letter carriers, 13 Jeep delivery runs and several rural route services, it will provide all the services of a post office.

A post office official explained that, while he understood the contract for the building had been awarded, he could not estimate when it would be completed.

Mail going outside of the Greater Victoria area still will be processed at the main post office.

Stadium Blaze Set?

A fire in a lumber pile behind the University of Victoria's central stadium, Tuesday night, was likely set, according to Saanich Det. Sgt. Robin Stewart.

Det. Sgt. Stewart said an investigation would start today into the fire, which burned cribbing and timber over an area of 300 square feet.

FROM MOUNTAIN
Firemen estimated the blaze had been going for some time because the wood involved was green and would take a long while to really get going.

The blaze was spotted by two Saanich policemen on patrol from the top of Mount Sooke. They radioed the fire department.

When police arrived flames were shooting up 25 feet into the air.

Rezoning Plan Recommended

The lands and planning committee of Saanich council recommended to council Tuesday rezoning at Ruby and Shelbourne for the shopping centre phase of a $1,500,000 shop and apartment project planned by Aceman Investments of Vancouver. Council tabled the rezoning section and will hold a public hearing on the shops later.

Garden Notes

Perennial Dividends

By M. V. CHESNUT

Last fall, when I was writing about the buying and planting of perennial flower spots, I pointed out that these roots would become the "mother" clumps from which cuttings would be taken in later years, and it was therefore sound economy to start off with the very best varieties you could afford. The time has come now to cash in on your foresight and take some slips, for at the time of writing these notes there are vigorous young shoots springing up to provide ideal propagating material.

Many of your perennial clumps will need thinning anyway, for almost invariably they push up far more stems than the roots can support properly, and such a congested growth makes for a weedy-looking clump and indifferent flowers.

The young, newly-emerged shoots you remove will not only root themselves nicely in a mixture of peat moss and sand, but their removal will benefit the parent plant, giving the remaining stems enough elbow room for healthy development. You'll find, also, that the thinned-out clumps of lupins, delphiniums and hardy mums will be much less likely to come down with doses of mildew because of the improved air circulation between the stems.

The socially acceptable method of taking these cuttings is to scrape away some of the soil around the parent clump so you can see the bases of the young shoots, then sever the desired shoot cleanly from the plant, making the cut immediately below the leaf node. The cut surface of the slip is moistened and dipped in a hormone rooting powder and is inserted in the sand, peat or vermiculite rooting medium.

Another method of doing the job is to take what are called "Irishman's cuttings." This is a vulgar, lowlife technique, frowned upon by the pukkas shills of the horticultural societies as something not quite sporting, like shooting a sitting bird or fishing with worms for bait. I guess it is just too easy.

To take Irishman's cuttings, you cheat a little bit and make your cut lower down, securing a few roots along with your slip. Scrape some of the soil away from around the outside edge of the parent clump and select a nice, sturdy young shoot. Instead of cutting it straight across and above ground level, though, you detach it carefully well below soil level. There will be some roots already formed near the base of your slip, and when planted up, it will start growing away immediately, without any fussing or special treatment.

Heathers and some of the other low growing evergreens will often make prostrate or semiprostrate shoots which push out roots wherever they touch the soil, and these shoots too can be dug up and detached as Irishman's cuttings. If your heaths don't produce any self-rooted shoots naturally, this tendency can be induced simply by mounding up a little sandy soil around the base of the plant.

An extension of this same principle is the nurseryman's technique known as "dooling," useful when you want a lot of rooted slips from any woody plant or shrub rather than just one or two. In this method, the plant is cut down almost to ground level and a mound of damp sawdust — a big bucketful — is heaped up over it. The plant grows up through the sawdust making many stems — a "stool" of stems — with each stem making roots within the mound. In due course the mound is pulled away and the rooted stems are detached and planted up elsewhere.

JACK SMITH Tries Tough Test

Can You Spell Tittle-8?

One of the pastimes that tends to date my generation, along with jigsaw puzzles and the Lindy Hop, is the spelling test.

Today's youth doesn't care how you spell it, just so you can protest it.

In my days we had spell-lms. Sometimes one class competed against another, and then one school against another school. It raised almost as much excitement as a track meet.

The spelling bee is old hat now, like the windup phonograph. But the spelling of English words remains as difficult as ever, and a good list of hard ones is an entertainment.

The April Enquire offers a list of 20 common words which they call "a spelling test beyond all belief." These were taken, the magazine says, from a list of 60, which was given to 800 college graduates.

"A high proportion of them were teachers, editors, journalists, professors, advertising men," says Enquire. "Not a single one of the 800 got a perfect score."

Enquire presents the 20 select words in a grotesquely mis-spelled form, so anyone can take the test vicariously without seeing how the words are spelled.

These are the 20:

As-a-b-8; brag-ab-doe-o-a; rare-ett-4; kate-well-4; gab-vill-yas; var-mill-yas; im-pah-sir; mock-ab-8; ab-bah-ab-dale; koo-ee-8; ree-ko-ko; 666-8; meek-rub-lim; may-ab-8; im-pray-8; is-a-b-8; meep-8; obly-gah; deah-kate; re-8-8-8-8-8.

The irritating thing about spelling is that we always misspell words we actually know how to spell. I missed two, for example — mock-ab-sun and obly-gah. Both are words I really know how to spell.

On the other hand, I correctly spelled two or three words I don't know how to spell. Tittle-8, for example, and brag-ab-doe-o-a.

Enquire gave the 20 words to "a broad range of average Americans" and found that "a score of six right was the median; 13 correct spellings were achieved by one person in 10; a score of 18 puts you on the level of university English professors."

So I'm on the level of a university English professor. But there's something wrong there. I doubt that university English professors spell any better than other educated Americans, or as well as the unknown scholars who told in newspaper newsrooms and proofrooms.

Many people think they are good spellers until they have to spell something. And good spellers have bad days. My wife is an excellent speller, for example. It was one of the reasons I married her. I was so poor at the time I had to make a choice — it was her or a new dictionary.

I gave her the list of 20. She missed as-ab-8; brag-ab-doe-o-a; ver-mill-yas; im-pah-sir; koo-ee-8; deah-kate. "Don't feel bad," I told her. "You're still one wordman in 10."

She was inconsolable. "But I really know how to spell koo-ee-8," she kept insisting. English is egg-ab-uh-ray-ting.

War Unthinkable

SYDNEY HARRIS

Along with almost everything else in 20th century society, the character of war has changed drastically in our time. A few responsible people in public life recognize this change, but the great mass still regard war as it existed before the advent of the atomic bomb.

In the past, for instance, news of the conflict between Russia and China would have filled us with joy. Our enemies were quarrelling between themselves, and taking some of the pressure off us. Much diplomacy in the past was directed toward the goal of dividing our enemies, hoping they would knock each other off.

But, in the technological framework of the 20th century, this is no longer a desirable strategy. Few war between two massive powers such as Russia and China could no longer be contained — if they decided to use their nuclear capability against each other, no area of the earth would be safe from catastrophe or contamination. This represents a fantastic reversal of traditional diplomacy. It is no longer enough not to want war between us and our enemies; it is now necessary to try to prevent war between our rival enemies! Instead of inflaming the Sino-Soviet crisis, our best interest (oddly enough) consists in helping to heal this rupture.

The new and utterly devastating methods of warfare call for new ways of thinking — and mankind is notorious for letting its thinking lag decades or centuries behind its social arrangements. If we imagine that Russia and China could destroy each other without at the same time ravaging the whole planet, we are thinking 19th century thoughts in a 20th century context. And this could be a fatal miscalculation.

Nobody could operate a modern auto factory the same way a buggy firm was run a century ago. Yet, in the all-important field of international relations, this is precisely what we are trying to do. We have made practically no advancement in handling political arrangements since the days of Metetrish; the Congress of Vienna is still our basic model of international diplomacy.

The plain hard, cold fact is that nobody can afford a major war anywhere on the globe, for such a war is now indivisible. And the old division between our "friends" and our "enemies" is now meaningless — for once the bomb goes off, all of us are involved, and there will be no friends or enemies left, only survivors.

For the first time in history, all mankind is sitting in the same boat. A hole drilled anywhere can sink us all together. Armies and weapons can no longer defend us; we can now rely only on the growing sense of our common humanity to save us from mass-suicide.

Camelot Chorus Smothers Stars

By EIRENE GRAM

HOLLYWOOD, (NANA) — The most carefully guarded publicity secret at Warner Brothers is the magnificent chorus group which burst into song at the drop of a hat, sword, or chivalry belt in Camelot. The contracts for stars Vanessa Redgrave, Richard Harris, and Franco Nero state explicitly that they will do their own singing in the movie version of the Lancelot-Leaves musical. And they do. But while all of them sing passably well, none of them is a Caruso or a Maria Callas. So Jack Warner, the clever one, has surrounded his stars with the greatest group of vocalists ever assembled for a screen chorus which effectively smothers any possible sour notes emitted by the principals. It all makes for lots of lovely singing . . . Julia Andrews could have used her own voice in this picture as she did in the stage version of Camelot. But her terms were $1,000,000 to begin with, and a percentage of the gross after the first $8,000,000 and Warner said a loud no.

When and if Cary Grant's estranged wife, Dyan, airs the divorce in the law courts she will reportedly claim that one of the problems in the marriage was that the suave, sophisticated Cary was a stay-at-home, night after night, and that he would only budge for an occasional date with his two close friends, Alfred Hitchcock, and Lew Wasserman. But what did she expect from a man in his sixties? Even Frank Sinatra will be less racy at that age.

Regardless of whether the Sheila-Gordon Macrae split is ever confirmed, Sheila has given up her New York apartment, is making her home here, and plans to purchase a new abode in Miami Beach where she has signed for another year as Sheila Glusman's winning wife in The Honey-mooners.

Expo Housing Not to Blame

MONTREAL (CP) — Robert Shaw, deputy commissioner-general of Expo 67, said Tuesday that interim reports on a "thorough and tough" police investigation at Expo's housing service indicate that there has been "no wrongdoing" in the service.

Montreal La Presse said last week that the Quebec provincial police were investigating fraudulent activities that may have affected the reservations for accommodation made by possibly as many as 500,000 prospective visitors to the world's fair. The deputy commissioner-general said that on about March 20 "a gentleman came into the Expo office and charged that an employee of Logexpo had demanded a walk-off or examination on reservations."

"He named a name. Expo has an inflexible rule that all allegations of wrongdoing are immediately reported to the police."

"In view of the fact that the name named does not work now for Expo, the matter was handed over by Expo to the provincial police for investigation."

"Now hear this: Logexpo does not make reservations, it only assists the visitors to do so."

Mr. Shaw quoted from the form letter sent to all prospective visitors contacting Logexpo. Confirmation of the "tentative reservation" made by the service went "directly from the establishment" where the reservation was placed to the visitor concerned.

The letter from Logexpo, Mr. Shaw said, makes clear to the visitor that the reservation is "between you and the management of the establishment, and Logexpo does not assume any responsibility with respect to any matter, either financial or otherwise, in relation thereto."

900 Pupils Escape High School Blaze

TONASKET, Wash. (CP)—An estimated 900 students fled out without injury when a fire of unknown origin Tuesday ripped through the gym of a high school here. Several classrooms were also damaged and the loss was in the hundreds of thousands.

Charge 'Unfounded'

Rap at Professors Draws Sharp Denial

OTTAWA (CP) — A charge that Canadian university professors are spending too much time on fields other than teaching drew a sharp denial Tuesday from a university official.

The charge made Monday by John Rudolph of Calgary in "unfounded" and shows a "lack of knowledge about today's university courses," said J. G. Parr, dean of applied science at University of Windsor.

"Some people make the mistake of thinking that the university curriculum is the same as when they went to school 20 or more years ago," Mr. Parr added in an interview.

Nine B.C. Teachers Polled

Walkout Sure, Seven Say

VANCOUVER (CP) — At least seven B.C. teachers with 40 or more pupils in their classes Tuesday vowed they would walk off the job this September if advised to do so by one of two provincial teachers groups.

Two other teachers also attending the B.C. Teachers' Federation convention said they would not participate in any walkout.

The nine elementary teachers were the only delegates reporters could contact at the convention who had 40 or more pupils in their classrooms this year.

The poll was prompted by a resolution passed Monday calling on the federation to support financially and morally any teacher who walked out on advice of the federation or his local teachers' association.

The resolution was part of the federation's attempt to reduce the number of pupils in classes under 40, then I would have to walk out because this is a principle I believe in," he said.

One BCTF member backing the resolution is Tom Russell, principal of two elementary schools in Surrey, and a part-time teacher in a class of 41 pupils. "If we cannot set up teacher Erhart Regier, a former New Democratic MP.

In other developments, the 1,000 convention delegates approved a resolution opposing recruitment of teachers for B.C. from other nations where the standard of living is lower than in Canada.

Trustees' Chief Replies:

Student Welfare First

VANCOUVER (CP) — A deeply concerned with anything that threatens the welfare of students," Mr. Beinder told the annual convention of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

The teachers voted unanimously Monday to walk out of any class that contained 40 or more students and to give full moral and financial support to anyone who does.

"I don't for a moment question your right to protest or state your case publicly. But I do suggest the issue we face is not one that can be attributed to the stupidity and uncooperativeness of school boards."

"It is wrapped up in a number of considerations which tend to be to a large degree beyond their control."

Smoke from bombed tanker fills sky behind British destroyer Daring

Bombs Spell End for Oil Tanker

LAND'S END, England (AP) — Reports received by the Royal Navy today indicated that the shattered super tanker Torrey Canyon finally died during the night in a hail of bombs and a sea of fire.

Coroner:

Safety Stays Ashore

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver coroner Glen McDonald Tuesday criticized outdated rules of marine safety in Canada.

"How many more must literally go down with their ships before the authorities do something about it?" Mr. McDonald asked in a newspaper article.

"By more I mean more than the 28 lives lost in B.C. fishing and tug boats last year."

VICTORIAN ACT

"By authority I mean the Department of Transport, which functions under the Canada Shipping Act... an act which when proclaimed by Queen Victoria was then as archaic as the most ancient rules of safety of the Phoenicians. There has been no change since," Mr. McDonald said.

"But there have been fantastic changes in our fishing and tug boat industries which would have stunned the minds of those who drafted the English Merchant Shipping Act — which Canadians plagiarized without think some 100 years ago and without think perceptible today. But no one has added one little bit more of safety to this new type of sea-going vessel."

"We cannot be sure but it looks as if she's gone down," a spokesman said.

Salvage experts were to fly over the Seven Stones Reef after dawn to check whether the Torrey Canyon—the biggest passenger wreck in British waters—had sunk at last.

British planes began blasting the wreck Tuesday with tons of high explosives and then rained down incendiary bombs in an effort to burn her leaking cargo of crude oil from the sea.

The first strikes by eight Royal Navy Buccaneer bombers sent smoke and flames flaring up to 8,000 feet above the wrecked 38,500-ton ship, which ran aground on the Seven Stones Reef March 18 and broke into three parts Sunday night while Dutch tugs were trying to pull her free.

Behind the bomber strike 20 RAF Hawker Hunter fighters.

GORDON AWAITS BIG JOB

VANCOUVER (CP) — Walter Gordon says he hopes to be drawing the salary of a full-fledged cabinet minister in the near future.

Asked if he thought he would be involved in an impending cabinet shuffle, the former finance minister said Tuesday he would not be "a bit surprised."

Mr. Gordon, who now draws a pay cheque about half the size of his cabinet colleagues as a minister without portfolio, said he doesn't think he will be finance minister again. "We who have been finance minister know too much for that."

Mr. Gordon said he expected his present cabinet duties to be clarified shortly.

Bishop Hails Message Of Papal Encyclical

Bishop Remi De Roo hailed the announcement Tuesday by Pope Paul which gave the support of the Roman Catholic Church to the long-standing ban on artificial birth control.

"The temptation is great to check the demographic population increase by radical measures," the Pope said.

Vatican City, in an 8,000-word encyclical on social and economic problems, did not relax the church's long-standing ban on artificial birth control.

"My first thought," said Bishop De Roo in Victoria Tuesday, "is this. I am happy that Pope Paul is continuing in the line of thought developed by the Vatican Council in its document on the Church in the Modern World."

The bishop said it is very significant that the Pope returns to the principle of the informed conscience of parents "as the source of final decisions in matters of population control taking into account the common good of humanity."

"I am also happy," Bishop De Roo said, "that countries are being reminded of their responsibilities on the international level to live and act as a family of nations to develop justice among different peoples. I think this will encourage a continuing dialogue between the church and the peoples of the world."

"In these rapidly changing times," Bishop De Roo concluded, "we need this constant flow of ideas and dialogue around the acute social problems that humanity is experiencing."

Fine All Captain's

ANCHORAGE (AP) — A Russian trawler captain, convicted last week in Alaska of violating U.S. territorial waters, faces forced repayment of a $10,000 fine and loss of his master's licence for a year.

Yuri V. Chernokhud, third secretary of the Soviet embassy in Washington, disclosed here Tuesday what action would be taken against Leonid Kushenko, 29, of Vladivostok.

Chernokhud said Kushenko

will have to pay back the full amount of the fine "over a period of time" and have his captain's ticket lifted for up to a year when he returns to Russia.

The Soviet government paid the $10,000 Monday to obtain Kushenko's release after he spent 43 hours in jail here. The fishboat skipper was flown back to Kodiak and then taken by a U.S. Coast Guard cutter to rejoin his ship, 20 miles offshore in international waters.

Kushenko was convicted in federal court here Saturday of violating U.S. fishing waters and was given the maximum fine.

His 178-foot shrimp trawler was seized by the coast guard six days ago after being sighted 5½ miles off Alaska's Shumagin Islands. It was the first ship seized for penetrating the new U.S. 12-mile fisheries zone, which went into effect March 15. The Russian ship was released during the weekend.

Strike Near For U.S. TV

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists rejected an 11th hour contract proposal from major U.S. radio and television networks Tuesday night and girded for a dawn strike.

Donald F. Conway, executive secretary of the 18,000-member AFTRA, said after talks broke up with the networks and a federal mediator: "The strike is on."

It was not clear whether the strike would be called at dawn eastern standard time or whether it would be called at dawn in each of the time zones across the country.

Conway said even before the talks ended in a stalemate that the union of announcers, reporters, actors, singers, and dancers was preparing for a strike.

STRIKE AT DAWN
"There will be a settlement—or a strike at 5 a.m.," he had said.

He said the dawn deadline was set because "the first really big show is the Today show. You've got to stop those people from coming in."

The Today show is an NBC television network program which is taped and aired later in the morning.

Conway said the strike will hit all national programming throughout the U.S. on NBC, ABC, and CBS radio and television and on the Mutual radio network.

STILL WAITING

Programs that have been taped after last Nov. 18 also will be affected because the union made an agreement with the networks on that date that no programs could be taped for use during a strike, Conway said.

An NBC spokesman said the network planned to use administrative personnel to replace strikers.

Reporters seek a base salary of $325 a week, plus 50 per cent of all commercial fees until the fees equal base salary. After that, they would retain 100 per cent of the fees.

Presses May Halt Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — The chief union negotiator in talks between five city newspapers and 10 unions said Tuesday he is convinced a new contract is unlikely before the midnight Thursday night deadline.

Failure could mean another crippling newspaper strike here. The Daily Mirror, a morning tabloid, folded shortly after a 114-day strike in 1962-63 and the morning Herald Tribune, which was to be part of a three-paper merger, never published after a 140-day strike last year.

The president of the printers' union, Bertram A. Powers, said Tuesday:

"We are convinced that it is very unlikely we will be able to negotiate a contract."

UN Scheme Fails

Leave Us Alone Ky Peace Plan

From Wire Reports

A U.S. Army field gun Tuesday lobbed a 175-millimetre artillery shell packed with propaganda leaflets over the demilitarized zone from South to North Vietnam. The missile had Nguyen Cao Ky written all over it.

Ky

The South Vietnamese premier had autographed the missile right after offering his own three-part peace plan — the main theme of which was that negotiations to end the war should be limited to South and North Vietnamese authorities (See also Page 3).

The rest of the world didn't seem to be in agreement with the latter little premier Tuesday. United Nations Secretary-General U Thant disclosed a peace proposal that was accepted by the United States, rejected by the North Vietnamese by way of a radio broadcast, welcomed in Canada and Britain and not commented upon by Moscow or Peking.

"Too many points of view and proposals are confusing things," Ky told correspondents who accompanied him to the artillery display.

"We are always hearing that the United States is starting talks with Moscow or Hanoi or somebody. Why?" Continued on Page 2

Terror Hands Clumsy

SAIGON (Reuters) — A Viet Cong guerrilla mine was planted to blow up the Australian Embassy here in 1964 but failed to go off—possibly because somebody forgot to wind its watch timing device, says a document released Tuesday by the U.S. military command.

The story of the abortive bomb attack is told in a section headed "chumai" in what the command called a Viet Cong document on terrorism in South Vietnamese cities. The U.S. command said the document was captured by American troops last month.

KEY TARGET
The document also advised the Viet Cong to concentrate their activities on South Vietnamese rather than Americans and to employ rudimentary weapons such as catapults and blowguns firing poisoned arrows for attacks on individuals.

"If we destroy the Americans they are still capable of bringing in replacements. But if we succeed in destroying the repressive (Saigon) government machinery, pacification apparatus, local tyrants and reactionary ringleaders, we will have achieved splendid achievements."

Unity Delay Balm for Tories

By RON COLLIER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson has dropped a hint that he may order a slowdown in unification of the armed forces.

Defence Minister Hellyer, now on vacation, has made it clear that he will resign if unification is scrapped.

The Hellyer compromise is a formula that will allow Mr.

Hellyer to save face but will allow the Tories to claim success in delaying the timetable of unification.

Despite the crisis now facing the Commons over unification, Mr. Hellyer has admitted that the "integration-unification cycle," which began in 1964, could take 10 years to complete.

In such a period, according to political observers here, there is plenty of room for making a deal delaying the legislation.

For the record, both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Hellyer are determined that unification will go ahead.

However, at a press conference Tuesday, Mr. Pearson was vague about the government's plans when unification from the resumed session of the Commons next month.

The use of closure to end the debate, he said, was "hypothetical."

Asked what he thought about the evidence before the defence committee of Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, former chief of defence, he replied:

"I read it on my return (from a Caribbean vacation). I found it extremely interesting."

African Tribe Remnant of Ancient Egypt?

By KENNETH PEARSON
From London

Man, according to the famous archeologist Dr. Louis Leakey, was born in East Africa at least 25,000 years ago. Since then, his development in that area has been badly checked. Climate, as much as anything, has destroyed the evidence.

But now, in the remote northeast corner of Uganda, a London professor has made a remarkable discovery which may shed some light on this mysterious past: a tribe whose language carries echoes of ancient Egyptian.

Professor Archibald Tucker of the School of Oriental and African Studies will announce his findings in August.

They are expected to spark off new research into the nine or ten tribes in East Africa whose speech are islands of strange identity in a region where the Bantu, Cushitic and Massai languages are largely spoken.

The tribe, the Teuso (they call themselves the Ik), inhabits spurs of the 9,000-foot Morungole range, with the Sudan to the north and Kenya to the east.

There are only 1,500 of them, hunters and gatherers with no cattle wealth, who have survived continuous raiding by richer neighbors across the borders by dispersing into mountain caves whenever danger threatened.

Until now, they were thought by some to be related to the Bushmen of southern Africa.

During an attempt to classify the mystery languages before they died out, Professor Tucker came across the first clue to the "ancient Egyptian" tribe last March when he met in Kampala an anthropologist who was living with the Ik.

Most comparisons between these mystery languages in the past have been made on the basis of their vocabulary.

Tucker was trying to relate them through their grammar.

The anthropologist had also been codifying Ik grammar. He showed Tucker his notes. The comparison with ancient Egyptian was at once apparent. Professor Tucker travelled north to the Morungole range to meet the tribe.

There, he discovered that Ik personal pronouns showed links with those of ancient Egyptian in its middle period, which developed about 2,000 B.C. and later became stylized into the classical written language of the Nile down to the time of Christ, when it was believed to have become extinct.

If Professor Tucker's speculations are right, how does this language appear more than 1,000 miles south of Egypt?

With the decline of the Egyptian empire, successive invasions pressured its populations towards East Africa. The move began when the Assyrians sacked Thebes about 700 B.C. and the Egyptians moved their capital to Napata on the Nile north of Khartoum. Later, the Greeks and the Romans kept the movement going.

The tribe survived because its unproductive moon-landscape territory can have been coveted by no other tribes, and because, unaggressive by nature, the Ik have kept running to live — and to preserve as a fragmentary linguistic fossil a memorial to a once great empire.

Less Foreign Aid Triggers Vicious Downward Spiral

Unemployment, Brain Drain Follow End of Israel Boom

For much of the last decade the new port of Ashdod, 20 miles south of Tel Aviv, was one of the symbols of Israel's determination and triumph in the national struggle for survival.

Thrusting its artificial breakwaters out from the surf-torn beach, raising its cranes high above the blowing sand, it promised homes, work and the good life to the Jews of Morocco, Algeria, Romania and Bulgaria.

It was part of the dream of the diaspora in action — the homecoming made good.

Now, with shocking suddenness, Ashdod has acquired a touch of nightmare. A thousand of its 6,000 workers are unemployed, and when local citrus groves have been picked clean of this season's fruit and the crop has been shipped, another 1,800 will be out of work.

Three hundred of Ashdod's families have emigrated in the past year and last month a sizeable gaggle of Ashdod housewives battled with police in a hunger strike. Dozens of new apartments are empty, and the building that kept nearly half the local workers busy until last year has stopped.

People of Ashdod will be among the first people in Israel's history to receive state unemployment pay.

The basic facts and figures are scarcely in dispute, in spite of some nervous efforts by the government to obscure them. After nearly 15 years of steady boom, with a national growth rate averaging a hectic 10 per cent a year, Israel's development has come to a dead stop.

According to minister of labor Yigal Alon speaking in the Knesset (parliament) in early March, 96,000 Israelis were unemployed out of a total work force of 953,000.

Nobody I've talked to here has much doubt that unemployment will be higher when the citrus season ends.

Now there is no dispute about the chief reasons for this sorry state of affairs. Indeed, many people saw or now claim to have seen it coming.

The end of German reparations two years ago deprived Israel of $70,000,000 a year and inevitably produced a reaction overheated by foreign aid. A simultaneously sharp decline in immigration did the rest.

Less foreign aid meant less money, less money meant less to attract immigrants, fewer immigrants meant smaller markets, smaller markets less work, less work less money and so on in a vicious downward spiral which challenges many of the assumptions on which the state of Israel has rested.

This is not to gainsay Israel's real achievements. The Jordan waters flow, the desert blooms, Ashdod and other towns like it have risen from the barren land. But wages, prices and a host of white elephants have risen, too.

With immigrants arriving at the rate of 50,000 or even 100,000 a year, industries were established that would use their labor regardless of economic sense. There are said to be 170 textile manufacturers in the country now, and an economist I talked to this week said only about 10 of them deserved to survive.

As building and development roared ahead, workers demands more than kept pace in an inflationary spiral.

So Israeli kitchens burgeoned with jumbo refrigerators on time payments, and Israeli rooftops sprouted with television aerials through which, as Israel has no television service, Jewish immigrants from the Arab lands received programs from Cairo, Damascus and Beirut.

BACKGROUND

Canadian Coasts Could Be Polluted

Disaster Costly Warning

By JOSEPH MacSWEN from London

There is a simple reason why jumbo oil tankers are on the increase: They save money.

It costs $3,000,000 to build a 20,000-ton tanker, while for $15,000,000 you can have nine times that capacity. It costs $5.50 a ton to carry oil from the Persian Gulf to Britain in an old-fashioned tanker while the jumbo size can get here for less than $3.

The saving is obvious — until you mention the 38,000-ton Torrey Canyon and the 718,000 tons of oil she has been spewing off the English coast with incalculable damage.

Such ships as the Torrey Canyon are able to offer much lower carrying charges even though they have to sail all the way around Africa from the Persian Gulf. They're too big for the Suez Canal.

The Torrey Canyon, large as she is, compares modestly with some monsters already afloat and planned. The Japanese-built Idemitsu Maru, nearly one-quarter of a mile long, carries more than 200,000 tons and a 300,000-tonner now is on order in Japan.

One northeast England shipbuilder is reported ready to build a tanker of 1,000,000 tons if anybody wants to buy one. It would be built and launched in two sections and welded together at sea.

The Torrey Canyon disaster has brought home with a shock to Britain — and probably other countries as well — that such accidents on an even vaster scale can be expected in the future. Already there are 50 tankers larger — some of them greatly larger — than the Torrey Canyon.

Authorities say the entire east or west coasts of Canada and the United States could be polluted by the loss of one monster tanker. New international law is required to enable governments to take quick action.

In England, there is a precedent which may have caused the government to tread warily. The precedent was established in 1954 when the tanker Liverpool ran aground near Southport and discharged 400 tons of oil to get clear. A claim of damages against the owners eventually failed.

Observers feel it is apparent that there should be some kind of double-check on the navigation of a ship carrying 100,000 tons of oil. The Torrey Canyon would hardly have hit the Seven Stones Reef if some outside body had been tracking her course.

One London newspaper has noted that the United States Coast Guard now operates an international service for ships in distress, with 17,000 ships from 60 nations voluntarily co-operating. They report their positions through a radio network which teletypes the message to a New York computer to produce a regular picture of the sea-lane situation.

Says the newspaper, The Daily Telegraph: "Here is a basis for nautical guidance on the lines of air traffic control. Vessels would report at frequent intervals and be warned — as the Torrey Canyon could have been — if they were standing into danger."

Cost Too High

Spectacle Cancelled

OTTAWA (CP)—The Centennial spectacle which was to have highlighted activities on Parliament Hill during the first two weeks of August has been cancelled.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh said last week latest estimates indicate the cost would reach $700,000, almost twice the original budget.

The two-week spectacle, directed by Sir Tyrone Guthrie, was to have featured choral groups and performers from across Canada.

Miss LaMarsh said the decision had been approved by Sir Tyrone, the centennial commission chairman of the Canadian Festival of the Arts.

Forgery Gear Uncovered

A 22-year-old Esquimalt man equipped to start a forgery spree was remanded for sentence to April 7 when he appeared Tuesday before Magistrate J. A. Byers in central magistrate's court.

Robert Bowen, of 512 Constance, also known as Robert George Karey, pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing instruments to commit forgery after a cheque-writing machine, four unemployment insurance books and a number of social insurance cards were found in his home.

FOUR RECORDS

Detective Thomas Smith told court he noticed the cheque-writing machine when he visited the accused's home last Thursday after Bowen was charged with taking four records from Kelly's on Yates without paying, after being caught by store security officer Harry Mills.

The detective said he returned the following day with a search warrant and found four unemployment insurance books in a china cabinet.

Two social insurance cards were discovered in a canister on top of a cupboard. Other insurance cards were found in a woman's handbag and under a mattress.

Bowen told police he wanted any other charges he may have against him from other parts of the country waived in Victoria. He thinks there are charges against him in Ontario.

Kenneth Buckley, 19, of 876 Rookheights, pleaded guilty to fighting in the 600-block Johnson about 11:55 p.m. March 25 and was fined $20.

A trial was held, even though he failed to appear, for Charles E. Lavery, 888 Colville Road, charged with dangerous driving. The court found him guilty and he was fined $150.

Court Parade

Donald Brown, 19, of 2294 Averil Simpson, 1291 Denman, Grove Crescent, was fined $300 after pleading guilty to driving on Government Street about 11 p.m. while impaired.

"I thought I was quite sober," he told the magistrate, who replied, "It is a common mistake."

Henry M. Buck, 342 Island Highway, was fined $350 after pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving and William McCoy, 1825 Feltham, was fined $300 after entering a similar plea to a similar charge.

Police said Lavery went through three stop lights and, when finally stopped, told them they would never make the charge stick.

Averil Simpson, 1291 Denman, $5, and Donna Vogler, 189 Maddock, $250.

Magistrate Byers remanded Brietta J. Denotter, 1728 Emerson, until April 5 for a presentence report after she pleaded guilty to taking items valued at $9.95 from a downtown department store March 16 without paying.

Fined in traffic court were Ronald Stark, 670 Key, careless driving, $35; Lloyd Duke, 2170 Lafayette, careless driving, $35; P. S. Kahalam, 768 Marlot, careless driving, $40; Ronald Larone, 126 Egerton, impaired driving, $300; Gary Watkins, 450 Davida, careless driving, $35.

'Fair Wage Myth'

B.C. Employees Disenchanted

B.C. government employees are extremely disenchanted with the "fair wage myth" of the government, compared with private industries, cities and municipalities.

In the March issue of the Provincial, official publication of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, the government is condemned for its failure to "make its wage rates comparable to those paid in the non-government sector in the B.C. economy."

The newspaper said the Civil Service Commission "has paid lip service" to the principle of putting provincial employees wages on par with comparable positions in other fields.

"Each year the B.C. government employees asked for an independent board of reference and each year this request was refused."

The article said some categories in government service, such as electricians, plumbers and painters are "hopelessly behind comparable 'outside' rates."

The article continues, "How can the Premier claim his government wants to treat its employees fairly when wage rates for many categories of employees even after this year's increases remain 10 to 15 per cent behind those in comparable non-government positions?"

"The wage increase this year could be classified as fair only if government wages had been kept reasonably close to non-government wages in the past."

Money Sought

Change Urged

Centre Policy Pilot?

The provincial government should change its policy and allow privately-practising psychiatrists and physicians to treat patients in the new mental health centre being built in Victoria, it was suggested Monday night.

George Kenwood, executive director of the British Columbia division, Canadian Mental Health Association, said Victoria would be a good place to pilot the new policy.

In Create Clinic and other institutions at Riverview, only psychiatrists and physicians who have government appointments treat patients.

ON LEE AVENUE

They are referred to them by the private practitioners, Mr. Kenwood explained.

It has been announced the mental health centre being built on Lee Avenue here will cost about $5,000,000 and will have 170 beds. Work started last summer.

Mr. Kenwood also said he hoped the centre would provide all the types of services needed by mental patients.

"If you haven't got that, it will be a splinter service," he added.

Bluecoat Blues

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — At least 60 St. Louis policemen are bemoaning the fact they were overpaid — up to $255 each last year.

A police department spokesman has announced the money paid out due to a clerical error would have to be paid back.

Doctors Study Disposal

A committee of medical doctors has started an investigation of all the effects of sewage disposal on the environment in Greater Victoria.

Dr. R. M. Peel, chairman of the B.C. Medical Association's environmental health committee, said Monday night data is being collected on all possible far-reaching effects of sewage disposal.

The study will be a companion report to last year's Greater Victoria sewage survey, which was a resume of the engineering problems involved in getting rid of human wastes.

The doctors will examine waste disposal aspects in aquatic and land environments, and how sewage systems can prejudice or enhance the success of living things.

Royal Portrait Presented

A portrait of Queen Elizabeth was given to Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, by Britannia Royal Naval College of Dartmouth, England. The gift, a print of the painting by Pietro Annigoni, was presented at a wardroom mess dinner by Capt. Peter Messien, RN liaison officer who came from Ottawa for the occasion. Group Capt. D. B. Wurtel, commandant, received the gift for the college.

Heavy Damage

Fire Burns Gas Station

One fire was caught in time but another caused nearly $40,000 damage in two separate Island locations Tuesday morning.

A flash fire at Nanaimo's Palm Dairies was under control in less than an hour, with the damage restricted to smoke and water.

But in Parkville, the early-morning fire at Bates Esso service station was described by Fire Chief W. G. Wheeler as "one of the worst blazes to control in the history of the volunteer fire department."

The fire, which broke out at about 4:20 a.m., appeared to start around a rack of new tires. The firemen were hampered by a dense smoke produced by burning rubber and oil.

Although the damage was nearly $40,000, the firemen prevented the flames from reaching the gasoline pumps and storage tanks.

STILL GOING
And service station proprietor George Bates reports the station still in business with gas pumps running and a new stock of tires coming in.

The Nanaimo fire, at the milk and ice cream processing plant, started about 9 a.m.

Ken Morgan, a salesman, had left the plant around 8:55 and by 9 o'clock smoke rose from the building.

Alert neighbors notified the Nanaimo fire department and its firemen arrived within 15 minutes, reducing the flames to smoke in half an hour.

PROMPT ACTION
The prompt action saved $10,000 worth of refrigerated stock, only 15 feet from the fire.

"Boy, that Harewood fire department is right on the ball, isn't it?" remarked Mrs. Eleanor Eggen.

She had seen the smoke and reported the fire only seconds after an unknown neighbor beat her to the party line.

Mrs. Eggen thought her barn was on fire and went out to check.

Island Scene

Mr. and Mrs. Art Hepburn had plenty of visitors at Fulford during the past few days. First their daughter Marna Hepburn came from Vancouver, then Duncan Hepburn, their son, also arrived from Vancouver. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Russell and their son Bob of Victoria also were visiting, and Walter Zetter of Vancouver joined them all.

Nanaimo service station operator Bill Hunter takes time out at the gas pump to chat with Colonist photographer William H. John.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Ringless have arrived back in Tofino after attending the inspection of the University School cadet corps in Victoria, attended by their son Danny. Uchuliet Recreation Commission reminds everyone about Talent Night on Friday, April 7. Mrs. Myrtle Saxton, RN, is accepting entries for the show. The annual general meeting of the Tofino General Hospital Society will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in Legion Hall. Regional hospital finances will be discussed.

MP Ready for Tour But Committee Isn't

PORT ALBERNI — There's no rest for the elected.
Tom Barnett, NDP member of Parliament for Comox-Alberni, has made a flying trip home to his constituency during the brief Easter recess, will cram in a round of calls to remote areas on the West Coast, hold a brief press conference in Port Alberni on the weekend and then start the long journey back to Ottawa, where it is expected Parliament will still be in session July 1 when Queen Elizabeth will address both houses.

MONDAY ARRIVAL

Mr. Barnett arrived in the Twin Cities Monday night and leaves today for the West Coast, Tofino, Uchuliet, hoping to get to the hard-to-reach Indian settlement of Ahousat on Flores Island.

Earlier, it had been hoped the parliamentary Indian committee, of which Mr. Barnett is a member, would be making a visit to various West Coast and Interior Indian reservations during March. The length of the parliamentary sessions and the death of the governor-general caused postponement of the committee's visit for an indefinite period, Mr. Barnett explained.

The member will return to the Alberni Valley by Saturday morning, calling on as many communities as he can en route. But there's little hope of a holiday on his return. Parliament reconvenes on Monday April 3, and with the armed forces unification bill to be thrashed out before the actual centennial session, as it has been dubbed, can begin. Mr. Barnett foresees parliamentary rians hard at it right through to the momentous July 1 moment when Her Majesty will make her rare appearance in Canada's capital.

Drama Festival Opens

Theatre Compared to Cigar

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — Frank Ney opened the North Vancouver Island Drama Festival Tuesday night.

He complimented drama clubs in the area for the valuable help they'd given the community with centennial celebrations.

"Theatre is like a cigar — if it's good, everyone wants to puff on it. If it's bad, no matter how hard you puff it won't draw."

He assured the audience that before the festival was over they'd like "the cigar" they were given.

After a short night's entertainment, because one play was dropped, adjudicator Franklin Johnson of White Rock succinctly summed up the two plays performed.

The adjudicator, known for his role as Judge Begbie in the Best of Barkerville, said: "I feel an adjudicator's role is not to tear down but to build up."

Of the Dark Brief, performed by Nanaimo Theatre Group, he said both the director (Roger Depress) and cast could have used more imagination, movement and development of crises and climax.

Referring to the original play Suburbia, written and directed by Tom Walsh and performed by Pacific Players of Nanaimo, Mr. Johnson said: "It came up to be a much better play than it was written."

Koksilah Area Taxpayers Stir

CHILLIKOT — Steps are being taken to revive the Koksilah Taxpayers' Association. The 10 officers and directors will meet April 5 at 8 p.m.

This is the pioneer church of the Island (1880-1885).

The roof and outside walls have been completed and the people had the church deserves a proper finish.

The Beaver Point community and the Salt Spring Lion members overhauled the little red schoolhouse in that district as a centennial project, thus preserving a landmark of 1885.

Collection of Newspapers Links Past With Present

By DOROTHY BUTLER

COOMBS—A remarkable collection of newspapers from the 17th and 18th centuries, lent for display at the PTA annual Arts and Crafts Show by William E. Gould, was of outstanding interest.

The Weekly News, printed in London in 1605, reports on the Gunpowder Plot to blow up the Houses of Parliament, with the lead paragraph reading: "A brief discourse upon the Arraignment and Execution of the eight traitors, Digby, the two Winters, Graunt, Rookwood, Keyes, Bates, and Johnson, alias Guy Fawkes." In a further paragraph, the News expresses that it is scandalized at the miscreants taking tobacco on their way to execution, "as if hanging were no trouble to them."

LATIN MOTTO

Benjamin Franklin's first newspaper, New England Courant, printed in Boston in 1721 introduces itself with "Gentle Reader, we design never to let a paper pass without a Latin motto . . . We would have obliged the World with a Greek scrap or two, but the Printer has no Type." Other books of interest were a second edition of Mrs. Beeton's Household Management (1901) lent by Mrs. G. Ward; a 100-year-old English grammar, (1867) the property of Mrs. B. Chaffin; and a very old Prayer Book now owned by her son John Chaffin.

Among the interesting exhibits were samples of book

brass wall plaques, exquisite needlepoint, wood carving, metal work, and a hand-woven rug.

Indian baskets were displayed by Mrs. K. Schouten, and an Indian chest carved in 1940 by Eli Hunt of Alert Bay, and presented to Mrs. H. Wilding in recognition of her efforts in starting a credit union there, with an initial deposit of 25 cents.

Wardrobe Vital

They Sew for Expo

By MARIE CADORETTE

DUNCAN — If you want to visit Expo '67 and also have a closet filled with beautiful, stylish clothes, you sew.

This is what two girls from Queen Margaret's decided to do. Dana Hammond and Robin McCauley, both 16, do not take sewing at school.

Dana who plans to go to Expo this summer wants to save her money.

But she felt she could not see Expo without a new wardrobe.

EXPERT

She and Robin wanted to take sewing lessons from an expert. It took an awful lot of coaxing to persuade their prospective teacher, the two girls said.

"It took us about three weeks to get Mrs. Maize to teach us," said Dana. "She kept saying maybe."

STATION STREET

Mrs. Alfreda Maize owns a shop on Station Street in downtown Duncan. She is a very busy woman and she felt, "with all the sewing I have myself I really haven't the time for it."

She laughed and said, "But you can only be heckled so far." She feels her two young students are doing well since neither has sewn a stitch before.

EXTRA ART

Robin who said, "It is just an extra art we wanted to take," is currently making an A-line dress with bell sleeves.

This is her first project. She chose a faded royal blue and green Paisley printed heavy cotton.

SYNTHETIC

She has lined the entire dress with a royal blue synthetic fabric.

"It will take me about five Saturdays to finish it," she said. Dana is completing a Dior summer frock of a soft blue print.

'Concerned About Report'

Indian Agent to Co-operate

DUNCAN — Cowichan Indian Agent Ron Sampson has advised Cowichan Band Council the agency staff is prepared to co-operate in carrying out recommendations from the band's environmental survey report by Myrus James.

Mr. James is a Kuper Island Indian and health inspector for the Nanaimo zone.

Cowichan Band Secretary Louise Underwood said, "Mr. Sampson expressed deep concern" about the report.

The report dealt with improvements of housing conditions, sanitary facilities, fire hazards in homes and other problems concerning the Indian population.

The band council at its recent meeting decided to request more information from the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation before events will be submitted to the series This Land Is Ours.

Miss Underwood said "The arts and craft centre at Ottawa requires 10 totem poles for gifts to foreign dignitaries during Canada's centennial celebration."

The band council also: Learned C. A. P. Murlson of North Cowichan and a former reeve of that municipality agreed to assist the Cowichan band as adviser concerning the band's housing development, and set dates for a nominating meeting, April 11 and a byelection April 19, for the election of two councillors.

Medallion Presentation Cheers B.C. Pioneers

QUALICUM BEACH — Canadian pioneers residing in Qualicum and district were honored guests at a special dinner in the Qualicum Beach Inn, and received gold pioneer medallions for which they were eligible, having been living in Canada on January 1, 1872.

They were the guests of the Qualicum Beach Chamber of Commerce and the Qualicum Beach Centennial Committee. Some 80 persons attended the dinner and were greeted by Charles Darkis, chairman of the centennial committee, and Craig Reid, president of the chamber of commerce, who took over the duties of master of ceremonies.

Called to receive their medallions were: John Anderson, Mrs. Ethel Burrows, Ernest Corfield, Alvin Hay, Mrs. Minnie B. Martin, John Noel Bray, Mrs. Mary Tracy Bray, Wainley A. Kaiser, Mrs. Mary Pickles, Joe Fielding, Oscar W. Thames, G. H. Stevens, Frank C. Morgan, Edward Logan, Marianne I. Hanson, John H. McMillan, John Roche, Mrs. Orian.

Several others who were unable to attend will have their medallions forwarded to them. They are George O. Nesbitt, Frank T. Nielson, Mrs. Sadie Lee, Mrs. Mary Isabella Dean, Mrs. Lilly B. Fullerton, Dr. Henry A. Mathieson, Sam Crump and Mrs. Ethel Johnson. This completed the list of 37 who qualified for the pioneer medallions.

Vancouver Oldtimer Big Hero in Tahsis

VANCOUVER — There are still a few honest people left in this world.

Just ask Mrs. Rita Deak of Tahsis. Vancouver pensioner Philip Schweitzer, 72, found a wallet with $1,500 in a telephone booth here Monday and promptly took it to the police station.

He did it even though he now exists solely on his monthly old-age cheque of $185.

When he discovered the wallet, with what was to him a small fortune, he had only $3 on him.

Meanwhile the rightful owner, Mrs. Deak, was in tears, reporting the loss to police.

That's when Mr. Schweitzer walked in.

And he got a tearful hug and a $25 award from the delighted happy woman. He said later he will use the reward money to buy a much-needed new pair of boots.

Soloist on Tap

PORT ALBERNI — A former Valley resident will be soloist Saturday when the B.C. Telephone Choir makes its appearance in the high school auditorium, sponsored by the Oddfellows and Rebekahs.

Robert Chaplin is soloist with the popular choir, which is composed mainly of B.C. Telephone employees, aided by semi-professional vocalists.

Mr. Chaplin won the Class A voice championship trophy at the Vancouver Kiwanis Music Festival in 1965.

PARKSVILLE — Arnie Van Horne has been re-elected to his fifth consecutive term as president of Parksville and District Credit Union. Patrick Flynn was elected vice-president. New directors are Mr. Van Horne, C. W. Baker and Don Tamboline for three-year terms; Gerald Thompson, two years, and Bernard Lane and William Toews for one year.

PARKSVILLE — plans for a handsome new building to be built at an approximate cost of $200,000 were displayed at a recent annual meeting of Parksville and District Credit Union.

Education Week Observed

UNION BAY — Education Week was observed recently in Union Bay Elementary School. Parents and friends took advantage of Open House to tour the school and see their children at work. Points of interest in all the four rooms were displays of art, writing and other work.

Doug Geldt, principal, and teachers, Mrs. Annie Campbell, Mrs. Katherine Webster and Mrs. M. Galtier chatted with parents and demonstrated class activities.

This is the day the parents' auxiliary can be depended upon to serve tea in the school activity room, and parents can also be depended upon to take full advantage of a social hour. This year was no exception.

Two tables were decorated with bowls of heather. Emily Peters, president, welcomed the guests and opened the tea. Muriel Peters sold raffle tickets.

Hotdogs and freshies were sold by Mrs. J. Stewart and Mildred Ose. Myrtle Adamson and Pearl Kennedy were in charge of home cooking.

Serving the guests were Isabelle Hood, Gladys Lennox and Lois Nelson.

Orchestra Treat Tuesday

PORT ALBERNI — A treat is in store for the music-hungry Tuesday when the Rotary Club sponsors Vancouver Symphony Orchestra in a Centennial Concert.

The 75-member orchestra is to appear in the concert which will be held in the high school auditorium, at 8:15 p.m. In addition two afternoon concerts have been scheduled for students.

The varied program will range from the Street Corner Overture by the contemporary English composer Benjamin Britten, Dvorak's Symphony No. 9, to works by Mozart.

This event is among a number of concerts to be held in B.C. during the Vancouver Symphony's Canada Council tour during centennial year.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Arrangements are being completed for the Grand Post Convention of the Native Sons and Daughters of B.C., to be held here Friday and Saturday. The men will meet in the Carpenter's Hall and the women will hold their sessions in the Elks Hall.

PARKSVILLE — The annual spring sale of plants will be held by Parksville and District Garden Club this evening at 8 p.m., in conjunction with the regular monthly meeting. The event will be at Legion Hall.

TOWNSHIP — Hugo Paterson, manager of the Canadian Fish Company, attended a meeting of the Island Chambers as Tolmie representative. Chamber members here hope to have a national ocean park established at Long Beach.

Bombs Fail to Sink Oil Tanker

LAND'S END, England (AP) — Reports received by the Royal Navy early today indicated that the stern of the shattered super tanker Torrey Canyon was still afloat despite a hail of bombs and a sea of fire.

Coroner:

Safety Stays Ashore

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver coroner Glen McDonald Tuesday criticized outdated rules of marine safety in Canada.

"How many more must literally go down with their ships before the authorities do something about it?" Mr. McDonald asked in a newspaper article.

"By more I mean more than the 28 lives lost in B.C. fishing and tug boats last year."

VICTORIAN ACT

"By authority I mean the Department of Transport, which functions under the Canada Shipping Act... an act which was proclaimed by Queen Victoria was then an act which was the most recent rules of safety of the Phoenix Islands. There has been no change since," Mr. McDonald said.

"But there have been fantastic changes in our fishing and tug boat industries which would have stunned the minds of those who drafted the English Merchant Shipping Act — which Canadians plagiarized without blush some 100 years ago and without blush perpetuate today. "But no one has added one little bit more of safety to this new type of sea-going vessel."

The Navy ordered jet bombers with 1,000-pound bombs and napalm for another attempt to burn away the sea of oil that gushed from the shattered hull.

However, definite word to strike again was still awaited at dawn by the bombing crews.

BURNING CARGO

British planes began blasting the wreck Tuesday with tons of high explosives and then rained down incendiary bombs in an effort to burn her leaking cargo of crude oil from the sea.

The first strikes, by eight Royal Navy Buccaneers bombers, sent smoke and flames flaring up to 8,000 feet above the wrecked 33,562-ton ship, which ran aground on the Seven Stones Reef March 18 and broke into three parts Sunday night while Dutch tugs were trying to pull her free.

Behind the bomber strike 20 RAF Hawker Hunter fighters.

GORDON AWAITS BIG JOB

VANCOUVER (CP) — Walter Gordon says he hopes to be drawing the salary of a full-fledged cabinet minister in the near future.

Asked if he thought he would be involved in an impending cabinet shuffle, the former finance minister said Tuesday he would not be "a bit surprised."

Mr. Gordon, who now draws a pay cheque about half the size of his cabinet colleagues as a minister without portfolio, said he doesn't think he will be finance minister again. "We who have been finance minister know too much for that."

Mr. Gordon said he expected his present cabinet duties to be clarified shortly.

Bishop Hails Message Of Papal Encyclical

Bishop Remi De Roo hailed the announcement Tuesday by Pope Paul which gave the support of the Roman Catholic Church to civic birth control education as long as this education does not violate "moral law."

The papal statement from

Vatican City, in an 8,000-word encyclical on social and economic problems, did not relax the church's long-standing ban on artificial birth control.

"The temptation is great to check the demographic population increase by radical measures," the Pope said.

"My first thought," said Bishop De Roo in Victoria Tuesday, "is this. I am happy that Pope Paul is continuing in the line of thought developed by the Vatican Council in its document on the Church in the Modern World."

The bishop said it is very significant that the Pope returns to the principle of the informed conscience of parents "as the source of final decisions in matters of population control taking into account the common good of humanity."

"I am also happy," Bishop De Roo said, "that countries are being reminded of their responsibilities on the international level to live and act as a family of nations to develop justice among different peoples. I think this will encourage a continuing dialogue between the church and the peoples of the world."

"In these rapidly changing times," Bishop De Roo concluded, "we need this constant flow of ideas and dialogue around the acute social problems that humanity is experiencing."

TV IN U.S. ON STRIKE

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists rejected an 11th hour contract proposal from major U.S. radio and television networks Tuesday night and went on strike this morning.

Donald F. Conaway, executive secretary of the 18,000-member AFTRA, said after talks broke up with the networks and a federal mediator: "The strike is on."

It was not clear whether the strike would be called at dawn eastern standard time or whether it would be called at dawn in each of the time zones across the country.

Conaway had said even before the talks ended in a stalemate that the union of announcers, reporters, actors, singers, and dancers was preparing for a strike.

STRIKE AT DAWN

"There will be a settlement — or a strike at 5 a.m.," he had said.

He said the dawn deadline was set because "the first really big show is the Today show. You've got to stop those people from coming in."

The Today show is an NBC television show which is taped and aired later in the morning.

Conaway said the strike will hit all national programming throughout the U.S. on NBC, ABC, and CBS radio and television and on the Mutual radio network.

STILL WAITING

Programs that have been taped after last Nov. 18 also will be affected because the union made an agreement with the networks on that date that no programs could be taped for use during a strike, Conaway said.

An NBC spokesman said the network planned to use administrative personnel to replace strikers.

Reporters seek a base salary of $35 a week, plus 50 per cent of all commercial fees until the fees equal base salary. After that, they would retain 100 per cent of the fees.

Presses May Halt Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — The chief union negotiator in talks between five city newspapers and 10 unions said Tuesday he is convinced a new contract is unlikely before the midnight Thursday night deadline.

Failure could mean another crippling newspaper strike here. The Daily Mirror, a morning tabloid, folded shortly after a 114-day strike in 1962-63 and the morning Herald Tribune, which was to be part of a three-paper merger, never published after a 140-day strike last year.

The president of the printers' union, Bertram A. Powers, said Tuesday:

"We are convinced that it is very unlikely we will be able to negotiate a contract."

UN Scheme Fails

Front Wire Reports

A U.S. Army field gun Tuesday lobbed a 175-millimetre artillery shell packed with propaganda leaflets over the demilitarized zone from South to North Vietnam. The missile had Nguyen Cao Ky written all over it.

Ky

The South Vietnamese premier had autographed the warhead right after offering his own three-part peace plan — the main theme of which was that negotiations to end the war should be limited to South and North Vietnamese authorities (See also Page 3).

*****

The rest of the world didn't seem to be in agreement with the dapper little premier Tuesday. United Nations Secretary-General U Thant disclosed a peace proposal that was accepted by the United States, rejected by the North Vietnamese by way of a radio broadcast, welcomed in Canada and Britain and not commented upon by Moscow or Peking.

*****

Terror Hands Clumsy

SAIGON (Reuters) — A Viet Cong guerrilla mine was planted to blow up the Australian Embassy here in 1964 but failed to go off — possibly because somebody forgot to wind its watch timing device, says a document released Tuesday by the U.S. military command.

The story of the abortive bomb attack is told in a section headed "clumsiness" in what the command called a Viet Cong document on terrorism in South Vietnamese cities. The U.S. command said the document was captured by American troops last month.

KEY TARGET

The document also advised the Viet Cong to concentrate their activities on South Vietnamese rather than Americans and to employ rudimentary weapons such as catapults and blowguns firing poisoned arrows for attacks on individuals.

"If we destroy the Americans they are still capable of bringing in replacements. But if we succeed in destroying the repressive (Saigon) government machinery, pacification apparatus, local tyrants and reactionary ringleaders, we will have achieved splendid achievements."

Pearson Vague on Plans

Unity Delay Balm for Tories

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson has dropped a hint that he may order a slowdown in unification of the armed forces.

Defence Minister Hellyer, now on vacation, has made it clear that he will resign if unification is scrapped. The likely compromise is a formula that will allow Mr.

Hellyer to save face but will allow the Tories to claim success in delaying the timetable of unification.

Despite the crisis now facing the Commons over unification, Mr. Hellyer has admitted that the "integration-unification cycle," which began in 1964, could take 10 years to complete. In such a period, according to political observers here, there is plenty of room for making a deal delaying the legislation.

For the record, both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Hellyer are determined that unification will go ahead.

However, at a press conference Tuesday, Mr. Pearson was vague about the government's plans when unification faces the resumed session of the Commons next month.

The use of closure to end the debate, he said, was "hypothetical."

Asked what he thought about the evidence before the defence committee of Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, former chief of defence, he replied:

"I read it on my return (from a Caribbean vacation). I found it extremely interesting."
